Deerfield Shields High School

MANY STUDENTS SEEK PART TIME POSITIONS

In order to be of assistance to the boys who are looking for odd jobs after school hours, Mr. Burwell held a meeting in his room Tuesday night after school to discuss these problems. Approximately thirty boys seeking jobs in which they could earn spare money after regular school hours showed up during the day.

Fifteen boys who came and talked to Mr. Burwell during school hours were given jobs, while about twelve who came after school were told that as soon as a job could be found suiting their requirements they also would be given the position.

When the students came into the room, Mr. Burwell gave them a card on which they were to put their name, address, phone number, date of birth, their present age, and the name of their session teacher.

One by one they were interviewed and questioned concerning how long they had been present in Deerfield-Shields, their previous work, their present situation, what they did and accomplished this summer, and the type of work they preferred.

The same plan was carried out by Miss Wilson when the girls were interviewed concerning the odd jobs they would care to undertake.

PARTY TO BE GIVEN FOR FRESHMAN GIRLS

Committees for the freshman girls' party have been appointed by Miss Connelly, junior class adviser, Marjorie Ingram and Gwen Sanders.

Dorothy Gleiser and Isabel Danley constitute the refreshment committee. Entertainments will be planned by Gwen Sanders, Marjorie Ingram, and Marjorie Frye.

Four junior girls, namely, Mary Hood, Nellie Cawkins, Gladys Ashurst and Ruth Lenfesty, have been suggested for helpers to aid the two committees in carrying out their plans.

Although the date of the party has not yet been actually decided upon, it probably will be held Wednesday, Sept. 25.

Seventeen Enter Drama Class at High School

Having a membership of fifteen girls and one boy, the drama class at Deerfield-Shields high school, has made a good start in the year's work.

At present the class is working on pantomime to learn acting without the use of speech and properties. Gradually this will lead up to the staging and acting of plays. Each student has his own make-up kit.
