

Must Not Shoot from Highways, Says Warden

Henry Kern, deputy state game warden, quotes the Illinois statutes to give a warning to local hunters against shooting fire arms on a highway. The law expressly states that this is a misdemeanor and the shooter is subject to a fine. That clause of the law is not contained in the hunting code.

Kern also states that where farmers are bothered by rabbits eating their crops, the farmers are permitted to shoot the rabbits, even out of season. This does not apply, however, to game birds.

Annoucement!

For a number of years, we have conducted a high class rug, carpet, and linoleum business at 552 Central avenue, under the name of Vogue Cleaners, Inc.

Now that Vogue Cleaners have their own plant at 327 North Green Bay road, we wish to avoid all possible chance of confusion—and we are therefore changing the name of the Central avenue shop to Highland Park Rug Co.

This will enable us to serve the rug loving public in a finer manner, for we shall now have the entire space at this address for the display of the finest Persian and Chinese rugs, Broadloom Carpeting, and Armstrong's and Congoleum inlaid linoleums. We are in a position to take care of all orders—no matter how small nor how large.

We have pleasure at this time in announcing that we are adding to our organization Mr. William Jacques, who has had a lifetime of experience in the rug, carpet, and linoleum business. His broad knowledge, as well as that of Mr. Nash, will be at your command.

One of the most popular of the hot breads, and perhaps the most popular of all, is the Parker House Roll, and it surely deserves its place for it is delicate and delicious and is never out of place at any meal. The following recipe is one that I have used for a long time and always liked:

Parker House Rolls

1 pint milk
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 cake compressed yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
Bread flour

Break up the yeast and let dissolve in the lukewarm water. Scald milk in double boiler and, while still hot, add the butter, sugar and salt. Let cool until lukewarm, then add the dissolved yeast and flour to make a batter, about 2½ to 3 cups. Beat well, cover and set in a warm place until light.

Then stir down and add more flour to make a dough which can be kneaded. Knead on a floured board until light and elastic. Place in warm bowl, cover and let rise again in a warm place, allowing it to become very light.

When light, roll out part at a time and cut with a round cutter. Using quite a small cutter will make the rolls more dainty. Brush over each with plenty of melted butter, then crease through the middle with the back of a knife and fold over, having the buttered side in and press the edges together.

Place on a greased pan, set in a warm place until at least twice the original height. Then bake from 15 minutes to ¼ hour in an oven heated to 425 degrees. The time of baking will depend of course on the size.

To make Clover Leaf Rolls, prepare them the same, then, for each roll, place three small round pieces of the dough in a muffin pan, having them round like marbles. Brush over the top with butter, let rise and bake the same as Parker House.

Thirty New Highway Cops Take Up Duties

Thirty new state highway patrolmen recently took up their duties in various parts of the state, bringing the total force up to 162 men, under the direction of Chief Walter L. Moody. The last legislature authorized a maximum force of 300, but with the present mileage of state bond issue highway, it is estimated the reorganized force will be increased to 244 men only. The state plans to have one officer for each 40 miles of highway.

Mrs. Coolidge Tells of Vandals Who Take White House Souvenirs

Souvenir hunters who despoil the White House when they are entertained there are rebuked by Mrs. Calvin Coolidge in her latest article which appears today in The American Magazine.

"To me the home of the president is sacred ground," says the former first lady, "hallowed by the memories of those men whom our country has chosen to the high office. To live in it is to live in a shrine and I never could understand the point of view of the souvenir hunters who took away mementos to add to their strange collections. In the east room, the little tassels of the finishing braid on the edges of the brocaded hangings at the windows had been pulled off as high as the hand could reach and I was told that in times past, pieces of the material with which the furniture was covered had been cut out.

"Upon one occasion the butler misunderstood a direction given him by the president, and instead of placing some small silver ash trays in the red parlor, he put them in the east room during visiting hours. When the mistake was discovered a short time later, two of the trays were missing."

Mrs. Coolidge tells of a tea given to a party of 100 professional men, at which a secret service man observed a guest putting a napkin in his pocket. Mrs. Coolidge related the incident to breakfast guests shortly afterwards.

"Don't you know what to do about that?" asked the guest.

"I know several things to do," replied Mrs. Coolidge, "but what would you do?"

"Why, send him a napkin ring," said the guest.

"For several days," writes Mrs. Coolidge, "I was sorely tempted to purchase and send to the collector a souvenir ring with a picture of the White House on it."
