committee be appointed to make an investigation and report to the council a means of making the property safe against a recurrence of this kind. Mayor Lewis appointed Commissioner Gourley, chairman of the committee, with authority to select any other members he deems advisable to serve with him.

To Re-Advertise Property

No bids had been received for the purchase of the present city hall site, etc., it was reported by the clerk, and on motion of Commissioner W. J. Brown that an ordinance providing for the sale of this property be placed in file for inspection for one week. The new ordinance differs from its predecessor in that it provides for a brokerage commission on the sale of the property.

Commissioner Reay moved that the bidder's bond of the Nye Orderless Incinerator Corporation, in the amount of $4,000, be approved and accepted in lieu of their certified check which accompanied their bid on a new incinerator. The motion prevailed.

Commissioner Reay moved that the estimate in favor of Moran Bros. in the amount of $1128.33 for plumbing work under their contract on the new City Hall building be approved and voucher issued in payment of same. The motion prevailed.

Award Sewer Contract

At a meeting of the board of local improvements the contract for the proposed Taylor avenue storm water sewer was awarded to the E. A. Meyer company, the lowest bidder, at the price of $5,893.50.

Following the council session a conference was held between members of the board, engineers and officials of the North Shore Sanitary district regarding the disposal tank on the beach at Ravinia, where, it is reported, a new structure is needed.

with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Black on Bloom street.

A group of our church women will entertain the members and friends of the Y.W.C.A. next Sunday afternoon at the association home on Laurel avenue. Refreshments will be served to all who come and there will be a very informal social hour with music and other features.

Next Tuesday evening, at our First church in Evanston, there will be one of a series of World Service rallies which is being given throughout the country. A very strong group of speakers will be present, a group of men who have made a very pronounced impression upon all who have heard them. This meeting will be grouped about a dinner to be served in the Evanston church at 6:30 o'clock. A group of local men and the pastor will attend from our church.

"Something is wrong when thousands of children are not receiving any religious instruction. Hundreds of parents, even in the church, have been too lazy and indifferent, even on the Lord's day to arise in time for their children to attend Bible school. God pity the parents whose children, because of this indifference, will some day bring sorrow and possibly shame to their parents through sinful lives."

Sunday the St. Paul's Evangelical church will celebrate the anniversary of the Protestant Reformation. In connection with the service we will commemorate the Lord's Supper.

Since our last celebration of the Lord's Supper took place at the Easter season, we would urge that the members and friends of the church to avail themselves of the opportunity at this time to enter into an hour of intimate fellowship with the Lord and Saviour for the strengthening of their spiritual life.

The members of the Workers' conference will hold their November meeting at the St. Paul's parsonage on the evening of Wednesday, Nov. 6. The meeting will be preceded by a co-operative supper to which the wives and husbands of the Church school workers are cordially invited.

The Ladies' Aid will meet Thursday, Nov. 7, at the home of Mrs. William Steinhaus, Park avenue.

Marionette Director Tells Experiences in Handling of Puppets

pert surgeon after a few years with the puppet shows," he went on to say, holding out Dame Van Winkle as an example, "for the little creatures are always coming apart, losing their heads or an arm or a leg at the most critical moment.

"And my apprenticeship as a tailor is long past. You would be surprised how these little folks are constantly getting their clothing torn despite the care with which my assistants and I try to handle them."

"You seem to speak very fondly of them almost as if they were flesh and blood children," we ventured.

Mr. Searle smiled, "Well, we do get rather fond of the little actors in spite of all the troubles they cause us. And I know some puppeteers who have grown so jealous of their little charges that they won't allow anyone else to handle them or care for the puppets in any way whatsoever."

The question most frequently asked in relation to the puppets, he told us, is, "How tall are they?" They are actually only two feet in height.

The optical illusion that the puppets are really life-sized, he explained, is due to the fact that the stage, properties, and dolls are built to an exact mathematical scale; and the human eye after watching them for some time with nothing by which to gauge relative height accepts the marionettes as being of human proportions. That is why a human figure appearing on the stage at the end of a performance seems so very gigantic—as if Gulliver, indeed, were stalking among the Lilliputians.

His eye turned restively toward the body of Dame Van Winkle which still lay across his knee; and we left him preparing to perform a major operation on the little lady in order that she might be in readiness to put on her very best performance in the forthcoming shows.
