

N. S. Line Observes Armistice Day Event

All trains on the Chicago North Shore and Milwaukee railroad (North Shore line) were stopped for one minute at exactly 11 o'clock Monday morning November 11, when the nation joined in silent tribute to our fallen heroes on the eleventh anniversary of the Armistice.

Special Armistice Day ceremonies were held at the general offices of the North Shore line in Highwood under the auspices of Evans-Watkins Post No. 753, American Legion. A memorial address was given by L. D.

Potter, district attorney, Racine. The post colors were presented and taps sounded by North Shore line veterans. Music was furnished by the "Road of Service" band.

Decline of the West

A plant for the manufacture of spats has just been established in Kansas City, Mo.!

And, as if that mere fact was not enough to flush the ears of all Missourians, it is stated on high authority that the concern's slogan is, "The Largest Spat Factory West of Chicago."

Northwestern Grid at Evanston Saturday

With the possibility of seeing the Wildcats crowned champions of the Big Ten, Northwestern undergraduates and alumni are eagerly looking forward to Saturday's final conference clash with Indiana at Evanston Saturday. Elaborate preparations have been made to celebrate the annual return of the old grads.

If Northwestern defeats the Hoosiers and Iowa continues its winning stride against Purdue, the Wildcats will be assured of a tie as the worst for the conference gonfalon. On the strength of their showing to date the Cats are general favorites to beat the Hoosiers. The Hawkeye-Boilermakers fracas will offer a real problem to the experts.

In mowing down Wisconsin, Illinois and Ohio State, the Wildcats have piled up a far more impressive record than Indiana. Pat Page's warriors have been subjected to a lot of rough treatment starting with their setback at the hands of Notre Dame and ending with a decisive trimming at Minnesota a week ago Saturday. The Hoosiers lost to Chicago and held Ohio State to a scoreless tie.

For two years past, however, the Page-coached eleven has proved a decided jinx for Northwestern. Last year a Purple eleven that ruled a pregame favorite was downed by a score of 6 to 0 when the elusive "Chuck" Bennett ran 70 yards through the mud at Bloomington. Two years ago Page's men spoiled a homesoming party at Evanston by grabbing an 18 to 6 win.

Coach Dick Hanley is looking for a tough battle. He told his team that at the banquet which followed the Ohio State victory at Columbus last Saturday. Hanley has lots of respect for the wily Page and his spread formations, which may prove troublesome to the Purple's sophomore line-men.
