

Deerfield Public Library

What the Library Means to Me
The library has very many interesting books and these books have very good stories. Some of these stories teach us to be kind, others teach us to do.

When we are in a library we should be quiet and read our books so that we can get something out of them. I would like to read all the books I can get from a library. It gets us acquainted with great men and women.

What would we do without a library.

What the Library Means to Me
The library helps us because there are good books to read and to learn a lot about the world and its history.

Some of the good books I like are "Tom Swift and His Airplane," "David Goes to Greenland," "Arithmetic," "Geography" and "History."

Books in a Library often help us to be wonderful readers in time to come.

Years ago there was a boy named Thomas Jefferson who had been buying books for several years and had a large stock of books when he became low on money. The United States was figuring on having a congressional library so they agreed to buy twenty thousand volumes from Thomas Jefferson and then they built a congressional library in Washington, in which they put his books.

I always remember a good book is a good friend.

What the Library Means to Me
The library means entertainment and help in studies to me. A book is a friend wherever you are, whether you are away on a trip or in a big chair before the fire. A book helps you to learn more about other parts of the world and about people in other parts of the world.

You can get a book and sit before the fire and soon be in Africa hunting elephants or crossing the ice of a frozen arctic river or sail the seven seas in a pirate ship and be home any time you please.

What the Library Means to Me
The library is an inexhaustible source of knowledge which no single man could attain in a lifetime. Without books it would be practically impossible to attain any knowledge at all. Books are indeed a great asset to life.

On a rainy day or a dreary evening one can have no better entertainment than a good book.

Books increase one's vocabulary, as well as advance schooling will. With the exception of my parents I consider good books my best friends.

Defeat Crystal Lake 12-6 in Game Sunday

Deerfield football team achieved a 12-6 triumph over Crystal lake team at Crystal lake on Sunday afternoon, thus adding to their long list another team which was able to break through victory. However, this was the first the powerful Deerfield defense for a score this season and it was the eighth team conquered.

The Deerfield team scored their first touchdown by a forward pass, Koller to Kress, and Smith's forty-yard run to the goal scored the second.

On Sunday, November 24, Deerfield will play the Waukegan Moose at Waukegan for north shore championships, which they feel confident they will win and hope to receive the enthusiastic support of Deerfield fans. The lineup will be:
