McHenry Has Three Possible Candidates

Three possible candidates, one of whom will be named to represent McHenry county farmers in the race for state representative in the spring, have been selected for consideration of the newly formed political organization that hopes to get a man back in the assembly from McHenry county.

Charles Palmer, a supervisor, who comes from Dunham township, Frank J. Green and M. A. Carmack, of Woodstock, were the men suggested as candidates.

Another meeting is to be held at the courthouse in Woodstock and at that time it is hoped by the farm party to settle on a candidate generally known in the district and acceptable to the largest number of voters.

It is the hope of McHenry county to place but one candidate in the field so that the election can be assured. Lake county now has two members in the assembly.
