Next Issue of "Sparks" to Be Special Christmas Number

The staff of "Sparks," the Elm Place school newspaper, has decided to get out a special Christmas issue. The business men of Highland Park, confident that "Sparks" will reach every home in Highland Park, have enlarged their advertisements, thereby making it possible to increase the number of pages from four to eight.

A large portion of the front page will be taken up by the cast and the story of the Christmas play, which will be given by the eighth grades one week from today.

On the second page will appear editorials and stories by the pupils. There will be a sport page, a joke column, "The Daily Mews," and a list of good books to give children of all ages for Christmas.

We believe that a copy of "Sparks" should and will reach every home in Highland Park, as the price per copy is only ten cents.

Elm Place School Gives Christmas Play

The annual Christmas play, "Christmas at Braysbridge Hall," will be given at Elm Place Thursday, December 19, afternoon and evening.

The play has had many changes and we believe it will be much better this year than it ever has been before. There are one or two new scenes and many different parts. Some new costumes are being made.

The play is the story of an English squire who turns over his manor to the Lord of Misrule and his vagabonds. They have a great time, you may be sure.

Miss Mickelson is directing the play and the eighth graders are very enthusiastic about it.

Watch for further notice.

An angry fan, dissatisfied with a decision, shoots umpire, according to a recent headline. No, you're wrong. It was't in Chicago, it was in Havana.

We know a man out our way who is so wet in his sympathies that he threw his radio out of the window when he learned that it contained dry cells.

again. When all are asleep the Spirit of Love takes Jane away in spite of Wongaloo's anger.

They reach Santa Claus' court safely, to Jane's delight. Santa tells her he will take her home in his sleigh, and after watching the sleigh times they are ready to leave.

Suddenly the Christmas Star falls before them and all bow in reverence as Christmas Day dawns.

Christmas vacation will extend from Dec. 20, 1929 to January 6, 1930.
