

Report Chicago Bank Acquires Waukegan Security Institution

Despite the rumor that the Chicago Title and Trust company had purchased a controlling interest in the Security Title and Trust company of Waukegan, neither denial or confirmation of this report could be gained today from H. B. Livessy, formerly of the Chicago Title and Trust company, who recently purchased a controlling interest in the local company from F. W. Churchill.

"The present organization is only temporary," Mr. Livessy, acting vice president and general manager, stated, according to the Waukegan News. "We will be ready to make a definite announcement in about a week. Permanent officers will be announced then."

In addition to buying the Churchill interest, Mr. Livessy announced that he had also secured sufficient stock from other owners to have the majority of stock.

County Farm Inventory Shows Property Value

The inventory of the county farm, presented to the board of supervisors revealed that equipment, machinery and household goods there held a value of $22,284.20.

The most valuable section of the farm was in household goods and the main home. This was estimated to be worth $11,500.

Other property included barns, sheds, tools and machinery.

In the past year the poor farm population was increased by 10, according to the report of Philo Burgess, superintendent at the farm.

A year ago there were 55 inmates and Dec. 1, 1929 there were 65. During the year 46 were admitted, but two died and 34 were discharged bringing the total to 65.

Valuable Cosmetics Lurk on Shelves of the Kitchen Cabinet

Despite the rapid development of beauty preparations, many excellent cosmetics lurk right in the kitchen cabinet and the ice box, according to Hazel Rawson Cades, beauty expert.

A solution of table salt is excellent for soothing and beautifying the eyes, she declares in Farm and Fireside, and adds that salt solution is also an excellent mouth wash. "Some people," says Miss Cades, "rub salt on their scalps as an invigorating massage. A salt solution is fine to put new life into hair brushes. Bath towels, dipped in strong salt water and dried are excellent for body massage."

Among the other uses of things from the kitchen include baking soda in the bath for hot weather and patted under the arms as a deodorant. Vinegar can be used in a shampoo rinse and vinegar and water is both a preventive and soothing after application for sunburn. Milk makes a good face bath and buttermilk acts as a mild bleach. A corn meal and buttermilk mask is recommended for fallow skins. Corn meal and water may be used as a cleanser for the face and is good for blackheads. Lemon is a fine bleach for hands, elbows and necks and lemon juice put into the shampoo rinse is supposed to benefit blonde hair.

Beaten eggs, adds Miss Cades, can be well used after soap as a shampoo; whites of eggs give an excellent dry shampoo and make a stimulating face mask.

Freight Car Bandit Captured Here Plans to Fight; Other Cases

Arthur Reid, ex-convict with six indictments charging him with burglary, robbery and larceny in connection with freight car thefts, last week pleaded not guilty before Circuit Judge Claire C. Edwards and indicated that he would fight the case.

Reid, who had not retained an attorney, asked the court for ten days to see if he could make arrangements. He explained that if he failed in this he would ask the court to appoint counsel for him.

The criminal trials will start Jan. 6.
