International Trade of Chicago Nearing Billion Annually

Chicago's international trade is rapidly approaching a billion dollars a year. A city-wide survey just completed by the foreign commerce committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce, in which questionnaires were sent to every firm in the city that was recorded as carrying on any international business at all, has disclosed that last year, Chicago bought and sold in the markets of the world wares valued at $809,570,467. The survey covered several thousand local business institutions, including manufacturers or distributors of packing house products, lumber and lumber products, precious stones, food and food products, wearing apparel, machinery, farming implements, novelties, raw materials—in fact, almost every conceivable merchantable commodity.

Values submitted by responding firms varied widely. The importer reporting the smallest value for the year bought only fifty dollars worth of foreign goods. At the other extreme another firm imported $20,000,000 worth. The smallest amount of exports by one firm was $100, the largest, $75,000,000.

Man Badly Injured in Runaway Accident on Lake; How It Happened

Plunging from a loaded ice sledge down between two run-away horses, Will Webber of Wauconda narrowly escaped serious injury last week when the horses, plunging across the ice on Bangs lake, separated at a post stuck in the ice and came to a stop after dragging Webber a distance of 900 feet across the ice.

Webber was rushed to the office of Dr. J. A. Ross at Wauconda where it was found that he had a torn ligament in his left leg, his left knee was badly wrenched and he was badly bruised all over his body.

Webber was at work cutting ice on the lake and had piled up his last sledge load preparatory to quitting work for the day. He was standing on the load of ice cakes, getting ready to drive to the ice house and unload when his team became frightened and jumped into full gallop. Webber was thrown backward off the load and fell between the two plunging horses, their sharply shod hoofs beating into the ice within inches of the body of the driver.

The man was dragged along the ice until the horses dashed toward a post sticking up in the ice and with one animal taking either side of the post, the load came to a jolting halt when the tongue of the sledge struck the post. Webber was able to extricate himself by the time fellow workmen reached him and took him to the doctor's office.

Report Income Taxes Already Coming Into Collector's Offices

Records have been established in the office of Frank Worack, collector of internal revenue at Waukegan, for the volume of income tax schedules which have been filed at this time of the year.

While but six more weeks remain in which those subject to the tax must file schedules as to their incomes, the fact that many have filed their reports is regarded as unusual.

Too many prefer to wait until the last minute before paying the tax.

However, there are thousands of citizens in the district who are subject to the tax and all of them must file their schedules within the next six weeks. This will mean that the office of the deputy collector will be thronged for the greater part of that period.

Mr. Worack urges all of those who have extensive schedules to file them as soon as possible as he is able to give them more time and advice in the preparation of their reports at this time.
