UNIVERSAL SERVICE PLAN IS EXPLAINED

Legion Leader Makes Clear that Organization Urges Only Investigation

O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of the American Legion, in a prepared statement at St. Louis, recently said the Legion wants a plan, which embodies the principle of universal service in time of war, considered and passed upon by a competent commission, and that the Legion is not advocating any definite plan but the Legion is requesting congress to provide for such commission.

The statement in full follows:
 "The American Legion is in favor of the principle underlying the so-called Universay draft, or service, in time of war. We are not offering a plan by which this principle would become operative. We are, however, asking for a commission which would propose, after a study of the principle, a plan. The Legion would oppose any plan that would place an unfair burden on any one element of American life during the time of war. We would favor any plan which would approach an equal distribution of the burdens of war and require equal service, as between all men and all property, during the time of conflict.

Fairest Plan

"Now there have been presented to congress certain bills proposing definite plans for the operation of this universal draft principle. These plans may, or may not, be constitutional. They may, or may not, be the fairest and most equitable plans possible. In view of those facts the Legion believes that the surest and wisest course to be followed in determining the proper plan is the commission study idea provided for by the Reed-Wainwright resolution.

"In fairness to those who oppose the universal draft principle as such, or any of the plans offered for its operation, and in fairness to those who advocate the adoption of this principle into law, it seems to us that congress should authorize a special and competent commission to study this problem and to report a specific plan and method of procedure.

Justice of Principle

"We believe in the justice and the equity of the principle. We want this commission to give us a plan by which this principle can be put into effect. If a constitutional amendment is required in order to put this principle into effect, then the Legion will favor such a constitutional amendment. If the principle can become a part of the law by congressional enactment, then the Legion will favor such a course of legislation. Let the commission recommend a plan and the method of legislative procedure necessary to make this plan effective.

"Since there is a difference of opinion as to the plan, certainly, a safe and sane course of procedure would be through the method offered by the Legion in the so-called Reed-Wainwright resolution."

Dr. John L. Taylor, county corner, last week appeared before the county board of supervisors and requested aid from them in hiring a stenographer. He pointed out that increasing work made the request necessary. This matter was referred to the finance committee.

PIIONEER OF THE STRAIGHT-EIGHT

Four years ago, the Hupp Motor Car Corporation predicted that the Straight-Eight motor was destined to dominate the fine car field . . . Ending the reign of the Six in the field above $1500 . . . Even then the Hupp Motor Car Corporation was building a superb Straight-Eight . . . backed by years of development and experimentation.

SCH-252D

HUPMOBILE meets this new era of the Straight-Eight as a seasoned and successful Straight-Eight pioneer. It meets the demand for the greater luxury of Straight-Eight transportation with two new and unparalleled Eights, perfected by more than a decade of eight-cylinder research and development.

In October came the first of these new Eights . . . the 100 horsepower Hupmobile revising all standards of motor car values in its power and price class. Then, in January, to crown the Hupmobile line with the finest car in its history, Hupmobile presented its second new Eight . . . the 133 horsepower Hupmobile . . . with a speed of 90 miles an hour.

In these new Hupmobiles, the Straight-Eight motor has been developed to its ultimate. Engineering tests and comparisons have shown it to be supreme in power. These are cars for the motorist who wants complete and incontestable mastery of the roads. With nothing left to be desired, in beauty of line and appointments, in riding and driving comfort, in range and flexibility of speed and performance. See them and drive them today.
