Gay Terris suddenly turned to her typewriter and wrote: "Personal-Young girl in desperate circumstances will agree to marry in return for loan of $5,000. Address Box ---"

Then the boss came out and saw

And complications! Life, for Gay, turned into a wild, fascinating dream!

Gay Terris was a stenographer, made it very plain that unless Mrs. art. Terris was sent to an Arizona sanitorium at an expense of at least $75 a week, she could not live more than three or four months.

Seventy-five a week was an impossible sum for Gay to raise. The doctor said that her mother would have to be out west for a year. That meant a fortune to care for her and Gay remembered that her mother had scrimped and sacrificed for 15 years to put Gay where she was, the secretary to Frank Patterson, a rich bachelor business man.

Sacrificed! If her mother had sa- tempted to make a similar vow.

crificed herself for her, Gay thought, why should she not sacrifice herself for her mother? She was terrified of the thought that her mother might die. In desperation she sat down at her typewriter and wrote this adver tisement:

"Personal-Young girl in desperate circumstances would agree to marry in return for loan of $5,000 .-Address Box---."

Here you have the problem with which Rob Eden introduces his heroine in "The Girl with Red Hair," the new romantic love and adventure story which is featured by the Daily Times, Chicago's picture newspaper. Mr. Eden will be remembered as the author of "Short Skirts." Besides printing his story the Daily Times is answer to the question, "Should a girl sacrifice herself for her mother?"

Another interesting and new feature in the Daily Times is the moviegram contest. $100 in cash is given each day for the best sentences made from the last names of movie stars.

Here's an Old Story Going the Rounds of the Newspapers Again

Certain newspaper classics are revived from time to time and republished. One of them, now "going the rounds of the press" for the benefit of the younger generation, is this:

Tennyson could take a worthless sheet of paper, write a poem on it and make it worth $65,000. That's genius.

Some men can sign a check and make it worth $50,000. That's cap-

The government can take an ounce of silver worth 50 cents and make it worth $1. That's money.

A mechanic can take material Chicago Daily Times worth $15 and make it into watch springs worth $50. That's skill.

An artist can take a 50-cent piece salary $20 a week. Her mother was of canvas, and paint a picture on it ill. Dr. King, the family physician. worth hundreds of dollars. That's

> A merchant can take an article costing 75 cent and sell it for $1. That's business.

A girl can buy a hat for $2.99 but prefers one that costs $29.99. That's vanity.

The author of this can write a check for $9,000, but it wouldn't be worth a cent. That's tough.
