North Shore Festival Ticket Sale Is Begun 13 Artists this Year

The North Shore Festival was officially started this week when the sale for course tickets opened in Lyon and Healy's Evanston store. Season or course tickets may be purchased up to April 30.

Thirteen artists will take part in the Festival this year, five of whom are new to Festival audiences. Those who are making their debut's to North Shore patrons are Frederick Baer, baritone, Nanette Guilford, soprano, Raymund Koch, baritone, William O'Connor, tenor, and Jeannette Vreeland, soprano.

Three of the newcomers will appear on the opening program of the series, Monday evening, May 19, with Madame Schumann-Heink. Mr. Baer, Mr. O'Connor and Miss Vreeland will appear for the first time, while Madame Schumann-Heink is making her fourth appearance at the festivals.

Frederick Baer is a native of New York. He made his debut in 1923 and achieved instant success. Within two years of his official debut he had earned a wide reputation as a leading exponent of oratorio, opera in concert form, concert and recital programs. His musical education was begun in his real year when he studied the violin.

William O'Connor, now a resident of Chicago, is a native of Kansas, a graduate of the state university there in law. He gave up the practice of law in his home town to come to Chicago to study voice. He has appeared with the leading choral societies of the city.

Jeannette Vreeland made her debut in the season of 1922-23. She is one of the better known singers among the native American sopranos. During her second season she appeared six times as soloist with the New York Symphony, and has since appeared with many of the country's leading orchestras.

Nanette Guilford, a prima donna of note, has been connected for a number of years with the Metropolitan Opera company. She is of the rising number of young American artists who are achieving world renown. Miss Guilford will sing on the program of the evening of May 19.

Raymund Koch, who also resides in Chicago, has had a wide experience in opera. He has also made numerous appearances as soloist with the nation's leading symphony orchestras.

Women occupy a wider sphere than formerly, but are doing their best to reduce it.

Girl Scouts

THE SCOUT MOVEMENT—GUIDING THE YOUTH OF TODAY

(By Hermann Hagedorn)

It would be interesting to know, if it were possible to record such elusive things, how many thousands of times during these past 10 years, elderly folks have watched boys and girls go by in their neat Scout uniforms, and have said to themselves with a pang of regret, "Oh, if there had been Scouts when I was their size!" Oh, if the unorganized, and undirected, lonely childhood they knew had only experienced the galvanizing contact of these sane, simple ideals of vigor and service and joyous fellowship in God's outdoors! How different the story might have been! What shining pages might stand in the place of the sombre leaves that memory turns so hurriedly and furtively!

The Scout movement is a benediction to boys and girls alike, a gift to a distracted and harried world so opportune, so needed, that even one who was skeptical regarding the intervention of the deity in man's daily affairs might be tempted to suspend his doubts and speak of Providence. At a moment in the world's history when the traditional ties of ecclesiastical and parental authority prove no longer adequate to control the impulses of youth; at a moment when youth is ruthlessly examining all accepted doctrines with a passion for reality and a hatred of sham which no preceding generation within the meory of living men has known; at this moment the Scout movement has come, reasserting fundamental verities, but reasserting them in terms which youth can understand, can measure by its own experience and can prove to be according to the plain facts of its daily life.

To ears on which (because of the over-seriousness and buncombe of generations of theologians, remote from realities) the word "goodness" falls without appeal and the word "sin" drops without generating undue terror, the Scout movement has come with the words "be clean," "be square," "be true." These words represent values which any boy or girl can measure, and indicate a standard against which the thoughts and acts of every day can be set for the judgment of reason and conscience.

Youth is safe, the country is safe, as long as there is an adequate percentage of boys and girls who accept the Scout oath and law and strive to live by it and accept the responsibilities toward their own minds and bodies and toward their fellow-creatures which that oath and law impose. To parents who are troubled because the authority of the church and the home seems to have grown tenuous and ineffective, the Scout movement comes like a messenger from on high, to guide the eager hearts of youth back to the ancient and unchanging verities.
