A Library Extension Incident

At Christmas time a country woman, with her brood of five, ranging in ages from 11 years to four months, came in, put down her dollar and said, "Grandpa gave the children a dollar to buy a library card so they could have books all the time."

About twice a week, when the weather is good they come in and get an exchange of books. We let them take four at a time so the mother has one for herself and four little folks have something for themselves. Very often they have their own list and know what to ask for.

Vacation Hours

The children's room at the Highland Park public library will be open each day this week from 9 to 12 and from 1 to 6. Mrs. Crozier will be there to help the children find material needed if there is school work to be made up, or to find a good story for the mere pleasure of the tale.

Biography

Great slices in the actual life of any man must be thrown aside, whether he or another tells the tale; but if the reader hankers after the untold, thinking it might be savory with peccadillos or the like, let him imagine the void filled with his own shortcomings, and he need not care to feast on those of men no better than himself.—Notes taken in Sixty Years by Richard Smith Elliot, (St. Louis, 188.
