Things To Cook

An excellent way to cook flank steak is bake it with vegetables and serve with the vegetables and a few cooked prunes. This not only makes a delicious and attractive dish, but provides practically a whole meal.

The prunes should be soaked over night in water to cover, then either cooked in the water in which they were scaked, or drained and placed on top of the meat to cook.

Flank Steak with Prunes

1 flank steak.

1/4 cup fat salt pork or other fat. 2 carrots of medium size-diced.

1 large onion sliced.

2 or 3 white turnips diced.

2 cups shredded cabbage.

Salt and pepper.

2 cups tomatoes.

1/2 pound prunes. Trim steak and cut in crosswise strips in size for individual servings, place in frying pan with the diced pork, or other fat if preferred, and brown well on both sides. Place in casserole, sprinkle with salt and pepper, with the vegetables over the meat and tomatoes over all. The drained prunes may be placed on top, or they may be placed in a separate dish, covered and placed in oven to cock while the rest of the meal is cooking. Sugar is not necessary, unless you want them quite sweet.

Bake in a 350 degree over for about one hour or until meat is tender, covering the casserole during baking. If you wish to leave this for a longer time, it may be baked at 300 instead of 350.

When serving, arrange the meat in center of platter, surround with the vegetables and garnish with the prunes.

One of the most attractive and appetizing dishes I have found, in which corn meal is used, is. Corn Meal Souffle. This may be served with meat or as an entree, and is different from most souffles and from most corn meal dishes.

Corn Meal Souffle

2 cups milk

is cup yellow corn meal

3 tablespoons butter

14 cup grated American cheese

1 teaspoon salt

1/8 teaspoon white pepper

2 eggs separated

Scald milk in double boiler, add corn meal gradually and cook 20 minutes, stirring constantly for a few minutes, then often until the 20 minutes are over.

Add butter, cheese, salt and pepper and cool before adding eggs. Add beaten yolks, beating the mixture well, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites.

Place in a greased baking pan and bake 45 minutes to one hour at 373, or until firm in center and delicately browned. Serve hot.

Clarence W. Diver was re-elected president of the Waukegan High school board April 12, in an election which brought out only 413 votes. The light voté had been expected, as none of the candidates for board positions were opposed.
