

Put Yourself in Our Shoes . . .

NO WE don't actually mean you should wear our shoes, but when our officers request a financial statement from you in connection with a loan, consider yourself in their place, loaning out depositors' money. It isn't any more than right that they have a complete knowledge of your financial standing. You would require it yourself if you were in their place. Financial statements are held in strictest confidence so you need have no hesitancy about giving them.
