Weekly Film Review by D. A. R. Committee; Pictures to Be Shown

Because of increasing interest in this resume the D. A. R. committee purposes to continue the recommendations and comments on forthcoming attractions at the local theatre.

"Vagabond King," feature technicolor with Dennis King and Jeanette MacDonald. This romantic operetta is based on the life of the vagabond poet, Francois Villon who lived and loved in France during the fifteenth century. The quaint historic background, beautiful color effects, and excellent music make a most enjoyable treat in which all the family can participate.

"Men Without Women," grim and gripping story of men facing death in sunken submarine. The opening cabaret scenes which seem rather objectional are quite obliterated by the effect of the film as a whole. This is an unusual and interesting picture, strong and a splendid example of true heroism for children old enough to think for themselves.

"Only the Brave," starring Gary Cooper with Mary Brian supported by a strong cast. This interesting portrayal of Civil war days involves a young Union officer, who, disillusioned in love, volunteers for spy duty. A picture of supreme courage combined with excellent comedy and beautiful southern scenes provides delightful entertainment for the entire family.

"Montana Moon," thrilling out-of-doors story with beautiful western settings, of spoiled daughter of eastern financier—made chiefly for exploitation of Joan Crawford's specialties sex-appeal and jazzy conduct. There are excellent song numbers by cowboys, but it is decidedly not recommended for youths or children.

ANNOUNCE REDUCTION IN ELECTRIC RATES

Public Service Co. Charges for Current to Residences to Be Cut Aug. 1

Reduction in rates of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois for residential electric service beginning with regular meter readings taken on and after August 1, has been announced by the general offices of that company. The new rate will effect a saving of more than a million dollars to users of the company's residential service over a period of 12 months. It was filed with the Illinois Commerce Commission on Tuesday of this week.

The New Rates

The new reduced residential rate, as made public by John G. Learned, vice-president of the company, will be 8, 7, 5 and 3 cents (net) per kilowatt-hour, except in Arlington Heights, Kenilworth, Lake Bluff and Melrose Park where the initial portion of the rate will be 1 cent higher due to ordinance provisions, according to the amount of electricity used in a month, and the number of rooms in a home will be the basis of computing the charges, instead of the number of sockets, which is the present practice.

"We are pleased to make this new rate available to our residential customers," said Mr. Learned, "because it makes it possible for the average householder to have a greater use of the conveniences which electricity brings into the home at a lower cost than before."

Customer Has Option

"Although this new rate does not cancel the existing rate for residential service, and any customer is privileged to return to the old rate if he chooses after having tried the new rate out" Mr. Learned said "we believe the new rate will be generally accepted because it is a reduction to practically all residential customers. The new rate is a modernized method of charging for electricity. Its simplicity makes it easy to understand. It is a development to avoid consideration of the number of lighting outlets and sockets in computing bills. Under the new rate the charges for electricity are based on the number of rooms and the amount of electricity consumed so that any customer may equip his home for lights and small appliances without limitation."

Make Survey

A survey to determine the number of rooms in residences throughout the territory served has been made by the Public Service Company in connection with the establishment of this rate, and a continuation of this survey will be necessary from time to time to keep the company's records accurate.

Coincident with the filing of a new rate for residential service the company has also filed a new light and power rate for small commercial users, such as stores, shops and offices. This new commercial rate, which will be available on August 1, will make it possible for a majority of the small commercial customers to secure a reduction in their costs for electric service over a year's period.
