Cut Interest Rate on County Funds; Loss Is Not Material This Year

The interest rate of county treasury money in banks was cut 1 per cent last Friday when two Chicago banks served notice that but 1½ per cent would be paid on money on deposit after today to the county board of supervisors.

The First National Bank of Chicago and the Central Trust & Savings laid down the ultimatum explaining that the unprecedented accumulation of funds and the prevailing low interest rate on available investments made the cut necessary. The Chicago Clearing house recommendations influenced these banks which are the Lake county depositories in Chicago.

In fairness to Lake county banks the county board made the interest rate the same here until such a time as Chicago will return to the 2½ per cent being abandoned today.

Loss Is Questionable

Just what the loss will mean to the county is uncertain. The report for the last fiscal year, Sept. 1, 1928, to Sept. 1, 1929, showed an income of $27,000 from interest, according to Mrs. Helen Sells Lewis, assistant treasurer. As but two months are left of this fiscal year the loss to be shown in the next report will be of little consequence. Should it prevail for a year, however, the loss would be material.

The threat of a cut had been looming for more than a year and at the session in June Supervisor Arthur Scout Troop 30 in their camp (Ottawa) at Camp Ma-Ka-Ja-Wan, Elcho, Wisconsin. The boys were just getting settled when this snap was taken, some of them being in other parts of the camp getting their equipment. Twenty-three scouts and John L. Udell as scout master are at camp for the two weeks, July 11 to 26.

W. Vercoe of Highland Park advised the members that he did not think it would be long before the banks refused to pay the 2½ per cent interest rate.

Tinted Bathrooms Are Widely Favored Says Building Trade Note

Bathrooms this year will be in gay colors.

This is the fashion hint that comes from Boston where at the annual convention of the National Association of Master Plumbers the styles in tubs, lavatories, and sinks that will prevail for the next 12 months were shown.

Scarcely a white fixture appeared at the great million dollar plumbing show. Tubs, washstands, dressing tables to match, bidets, dental lavatories, towel bars, soap dishes, sinks—all were in colors. And such a variety of colors! There were tubs in brown, blue, and red. Lavatories in green, tan, and black. Sinks with their iron sides gayly bedecked in coats of lavender, green, or ivory acid resisting enamel.

The exhibit was a sea of color offset by the bright flash of chromium and the dull gleam of pipes and tools.

The fixtures on display showed the definite trend toward luxury in American bathroom equipment. There is scarcely a limit to the amount of money one may spend today on this room to make it the acme of luxury and lavish decoration and furnishing.

For instance, there was on display a 2,100-pound tub cut out of translucent, rose-tinted and gold-veined Mexican Pedrera onyx.

This tub is equipped with gold-plated faucets and fittings, hand chased by French artists, and it may be picked up for the ridiculously low figure of $7,500.

One may buy a wash basin to match, also with gold-plated fittings, for $1,500. The water closet to match costs $500. A built-in shower stall, with similar fittings costs $1,000. The walls and floor, with ceilings and mirrors and additional furnishings of dressing tables, chaise-lounge, chairs, bidets, dental lavatory, towel warmers, etc., may cost as much as one wants to pay. People who buy this type of onyx tub with a lavatory and closet combination to match usually spend about $30,000 on the entire bathroom, master plumbers at the convention declared.

Side by side with the fixtures reflecting the current mode in plumbing for bungalow and mansion were displays showing the obsolete fixtures of only a decade or two ago—tubs on legs, water closets with tanks under the ceiling, and wall-hung lavatories with their supply pipes and waste pipes exposed.

Another exhibit called attention to the antiquity of the plumbing profession. There was on display a length of lead pipe certified by Columbia University professors to have been laid in Rome during the time of the Caesars, at least 2,000 years ago.

Ten Years Before Lake Shore Drive Completed to Evanston, Prediction

If long suffering north shore motorists ever have a direct drive along the lake in Chicago north to Evanston, it will not be completed before 1940, officials of the Lincoln park and North Shore park boards disclosed in Chicago recently.

Ten years will be necessary to complete the work and the reason for this delay is that park officials believe that the taxpayers would not stand for a tax to complete it sooner.

The section of the outer drive extension from Lawrence avenue to Devon avenue, Chicago, is under the Lincoln park board's jurisdiction. It has been estimated that the total cost of acquiring riparian rights, building piers, filling in and paving construction will run from 30 to 40 millions of dollars.

One bond issue of $9,000,000 already has been permitted by the state legislature, and further issues will have to be approved by the legislature, before the work can be even well started.

"It will take us 10 years to do the work between Devon avenue and Evanston," J. P. Ward, president of the North Shore board, says.

Meantime in Wisconsin, everything possible is being done in Kenosha, Racine, and Milwaukee counties to put the through Sheridan road highway in the best of condition to accommodate the hundreds of Chicago motorists using this road.
