The Inspired Reporter

Due to the absence of the editor-in-chief, the "?" will be only one page in length today. Our worthy editor is having a little sojourn in the mountain fastnesses of Elcho and Antigo, where he is enjoying a little well-earned vacation.

We wonder if the inspiring reporter is conspiring against himself, the newspaper, or whether he is really conspired to the point of being copyless. We think that that must be the case as no copy has been forthcoming for the last two days, and we suppose that the reporter is hiding away in shame as a result of his conspiracy. What say?

How about that copy for the radio edition?

The inspiring reporter is apparently a sleeping reporter today. We have received no copy from him and have been absolutely unable to locate him. Maybe he went off on a canoe trip or some little thing like that.

Mr. Kreusch says that he was able to sleep well last night while out on his ordeal because he lies so well.

None have yet guessed the identity of the inspired reporter, and Mr. Wightman says he will announce this important bit of information in Friday evening issue of the "?" which he expects to publish on time and in this way give everyone an opportunity to get back at him for the many revelations he has made. Well it really isn't fair to hide all the time when you're on this kind of an assignment.

The composition room seems to be responsible for saying, in yesterday's issue, that "the log would not split" in spite of much had "chopping."

Howard Culver thinks that it's a gyp that he has to put his box of gum in the Q.M.

Fred Robinson says that the "?" is a pretty rotten newspaper.

The editor-in-chief thinks that the inspired reporter has quit working, but the ed is all wet for the most inquisitive individual in camp is again turning in copy.

The inspired reporter is wasting away to a shadow of his former self. He seems more like an expiring reporter than anything else. His identity will be divulged in tomorrow's issue of this here "?"

SEA SCOUT SHIP OF NORTH SHORE AREA

Sea Scout Ship activities on board the sailing boat owned and operated by the North Shore Area council, Boy Scouts of America, moored at Great Lakes harbor.

Wednesday — Lake Forest: In order to leave the mooring Whambolt tied the painter to the dingy and pulled it aft. There wasn't enough wind to move the ship fast enough so most of the boys went overboard and pulled. This tired the boys out pretty quickly so we used the motor to get out into the lake. There wasn't much more wind on the lake so we returned using the motor. We moored at eight bells and disembarked at 5:30 after sounding most of the harbor and washing the boat. The leaders were Messrs. Ambler, Whambolt, Fellows, and Mr. Benjamin Carpenter, the skipper.

Wednesday evening—Glencoe:

Thursday—Winnetka:

Saturday — Lake Forest: At 10 o'clock of the crew passed swimming and mapping tests. We chartered the harbor and made a few soundings. At two the skipper, Benjamin Carpenter with troop committeemen Messrs. Ambler, Bronson and Fellows came on board. Two boys were always kept in the dingy. We practiced man overboard drills. The wind was very strong, but we had no trouble bringing her in.

Sunday—Lake Forest: At two the crew and officers came board and as there was too much wind we stayed in the harbor and learned all we could from charts of the lake and found out how to set courses and angles and distances.

NEW SCOUTS AND SCOUTERS
