

COURT RESTRAINS "101 RANCH'S" ACTIVITIES

Final Decree of Injunction Eliminates Unpleasant Conditions

The following letter has been received at the Press Office and it is herewith reproduced in full. It is self-explanatory:

September 2, 1930.
The Highland Park Press,
Highland Park, Ill.
Gentlemen:

I have been directed by Mayor Lewis to advise you of the results of the litigation instituted by the City of Highland Park against Rhynaldo Calder and Hannah Calder.

The writer was employed as special counsel to institute proceedings against these defendants, who operate what is commonly known in Ravinia and Highland Park as the "101 Ranch" on Pleasant avenue, West of the tracks and just North of Roger Williams avenue.

"A bill for injunction was filed on October 2, 1928, charging these defendants with violating the zoning ordinances of the City of Highland Park and charging that they filed plans for the building of a two story dwelling on the premises and never completed it but that they roofed over the basement walls and were living in the same as a temporary dwelling, and never procured any occupancy permits for the use of temporary buildings; that they have been using the premises for a business use and not a residence use, conducting a general teaming and landscaping business, the operation of a poultry yard for profit and the construction and operation of shacks for profit and in other ways violated the zoning ordinances.

"Defendants originally demurred to the bill and Judge Claire Edwards overruled the demurrers. Various hearings were had from time to time and after much delay occasioned by the tactics of the defendants and their counsel, the case went to final decree. The Hon. Judge Edward D. Shurtleff entered such decree on June 25, 1930, and thereafter efforts were made to vacate the decree and such motions were denied in the month of August, 1930.

"Final decree of injunction therefore stands against these defendants and the writ is in the hands of the Sheriff. The decree perpetually and forever enjoins and restrains them:

1. From maintaining on the said lands the temporary buildings-constructed thereon, now occupied as a dwelling house, in violation of said ordinances.
2. From carrying on on said lands the business of teaming and hauling.
3. From carrying on on said lands the operation of a poultry business.
4. From keeping and maintaining temporary shacks and carrying on the business of renting the same to tenants; and also further orders the defendants to take down and remove the temporary buildings occupied as a dwelling house and used in connection with the operation of said business conducted by them and to dis-

Bishop Woodring to Speak Here Sunday

The Rev. Harold Street preached very acceptably at the First United Evangelical church on last Sunday. Good audiences greeted him.

A number of the members of the church, including Rev. and Mrs. Unangst, attended the Fundamentals Bible conference at Cedar Lake, Indiana, over last Sunday. They returned on Tuesday and reported having had a most profitable time. Dr. Wm. L. Pettingill, of Wilmington, Delaware, a noted Bible teacher, and Dr. Robert L. Evans, of Pasadena, Calif., were among the special speakers.

Bishop E. S. Woodring, of Allentown, Penn., will preach for the United Evangelical people and their many friends on next Sunday evening at 7:45. The weather permitting, an open air service will be held in front of the church at 7:00 o'clock, just preceding the regular evening service.

continue the operation of said business in violation of said ordinance.

"The costs of the proceeding, amounting to $222.50, were also taxed against the defendants.

"Unless the defendants comply promptly with the injunctive order efforts will be made to hold them in contempt of court at the opening of the next Term in Waukegan.

Yours very truly,

Sonnenschein, Berkson, Lautmann & Levinson.

MacDowell Society Resumes Activities

The MacDowell society of the North Shore is about to resume its activities for the coming season. The society has three meetings during the year—one of which is a benefit for the "Retreat" at Petenborough, N. H., the project which lay so close to the great composer's heart. Here artists, writers and musicians may with proper credentials go and study in peace, removed from the distractions of the world. This meeting will be held in Highland Park if possible, at which time a fine dramatic and musical program will be offered.

Mother of E. G. Ball Dies Sunday Morning

Mrs. Marietta Francis Ball, aged seventy-seven years, passed away Sunday morning at the home of her son, Mr. Edgar G. Ball of Ridgewood drive, following a month's illness.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock from the residence, with interment at Rose Hill cemetery. The Rev. Horace Smith of Wilmette officiated.

She leaves to survive her five sons, Albert D., Malcolm M., Lester W., Edgar G., and Howard L.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bartel and niece Mary Beverly Turriff motored to Mt. Olive, Ill., over the week-end where they attended the wedding of their niece Miss Selma Felkerts.

N. S. Garden Club Annual Flower Show, Lake Shore Club

The North Shore Garden club held its annual flower show at the Lake Shore Country club Tuesday, August 26. Members of the club competed in two classes, and awards were made from the judges' decisions as well as from members' decisions.

The following were given awards by the judges: Class 1, first prize, Mrs. Born; second, Mrs. Melville Rothschild; third, Mrs. Charles Rubens; honorable mention, Mrs. Jesse Straus, Mrs. Fred Uhlmann, Mrs. A. K. Stern and Mrs. Adolph Stein. Class 2, first, Mrs. A. G. Becker; second, Mrs. Moses Eisenstaedt; third, Mrs. Julius Rosenwald; honorable mention, Mrs. Eugene Klaber, Mrs. Harold Florsheim, and Mrs. Jesse Straus.

Judges of the show were: Mrs. Walter Brewster, president of the Lake Forest Garden club and well-known as an authority; Stanley White, head of the Foundation for Architecture and Landscape Architecture at Lake Forest, and Mr. Geranios, of the F. W. Dreiske company.

The next meeting of the North Shore Garden club will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Rubens, on Moraine road, September 11. At that time club members will hear Mr. Hugh Finlay, New York landscape architect, speak on "Trees." His talk will be illustrated with lantern slides.
