

VARIED DUTIES OF HIGHWAY POLICEMEN

State Directors Declare They Are Not Prohibition Agents

Many and varied are the duties of highway police, according to Walter L. Moody, chief of the highway police, in his recent instructions to the officers.

Not Dry Agents

"But they are not prohibition agents," said Moody.

"My men are hired to protect life and property on the state highways. They are not dry sleuths but they must co-operate with county officials in arresting persons who openly violate the liquor law."

This co-operation, Moody said, is limited to the point where his men are not permitted to search trucks or passenger vehicles unless they have certain proof that the law is being violated.

"Searching of trucks and automobiles," he said, "is not permissible without a search warrant but where the automobile or truck in question is being used to transport liquor, my men have instructions to arrest the occupants and turn them over to county officials in the county in which the arrest took place."

Moody on September 1 had 262 men patrolling state highways, most all of whom use motorcycles.

Expect Big Increase

This number is expected to be increased to 330 during the winter months, additional motorcycles and automobiles having been purchased a few weeks ago. As new roads are completed, new men will be employed to patrol them.

Precautions against rioting this winter in southern Illinois coal fields where factional unions differences has caused much bitterness, are planned by Moody.

He is arranging to send a large number of his men to various centers in that region as the mines open up on a big scale to meet increased demands for winter coal.

Y. W. CAMPAIGN IS PROGRESSING WELL

which has compiled a collection of the favorite songs used in other Y. W. C. A. drives, and has added some new ones. The following song is dedicated to the files committee:

Work all night, work all day
For Y. W. C. A.

We keep going.
We're for the "Y" with all our heart,
This Campaign has the proper start!
Keep it going!

Teams and captains have the proper spirit,
We will make that budget, never fear it.

Here we are, all in step,
On our toes—full of pep!
"Y" teams — Let's go!

Another song should be published for the benefit of the contributors, who do not have the privilege of hearing it sung:

Pull out your check-book and your fountain pen,
You gave before and you can give again;

And Smile, Smile, Smile.
Smile, folks, that's the style!
What's the use of hoarding it?
It won't be worth your while, so
Pull out your check-book and your fountain pen,

Campaign Luncheons

These songs are used with effect at the daily campaign luncheons, where the solicitors gather to give reports and to receive instructions. Miss Adele Everett is chairman of the luncheon committee. The first luncheon was served at 1 o'clock on Monday, October 6, with representatives of five teams present. The initial gift committee announced that $732 had been raised before the opening of the general campaign.

Rev. Frank Fitt spoke to the workers, encouraging them to enter the campaign with confidence. He told them that they have a worthy cause; that they are an effective group of workers; and that their optimism should in no way be undermined by talk of hard times. He reminded them that the stock crash last year did not prevent the friends of the association from making their usual gifts, and he spoke of the general experience of churches and other enterprises which serve the higher values of life. In time of depression they are always well supported. "It is the unnecessary luxuries and unsocial enterprises like bootlegging which suffer when people begin to cut their budgets."

Illustrates Points

Rev. Harvey F. Siemsen addressed the workers on Tuesday and illustrated the same point by an incident reported to him by Mrs. Noerenberg, who was a delegate at the Quadrennial Convention of the Women's Missionary society of the Evangelical church at South Bend, last summer. The delegates not only raised the usual budget, but undertook an additional fund of $5000, which was over-subscribed by $1,500. Mr. Siemsen spoke of the useful work done by the Y. W. C. A. and told of how much it had meant to him to be able to live at a Y. W. C. A. when he was a young man. Rev. W. F. Suhr was the guest of the association at the luncheon given Wednesday.

Campaign Experiences

The solicitors have been experiencing the usual difficulties and trails of campaign week, of which the two greatest have been downpours of rain and the elusiveness of Highland Park citizens, who are so seldom to be found at home that an average of three calls is not enough to account for one subscription. The campaign workers have also been experiencing the usual pleasures of campaign week, of which the greatest are the sense of fellowship in a common cause, and the cordiality with which they are received when they do find people at home. Women who have worked in previous campaigns report that never before have they met so few objections and criticisms. They have been encouraged to find that the purpose and work of the Y. W. C. A. is now well understood by the people of Highland Park.

Junior League Plans Series of Lectures on Symphony Orchestra

In order to fulfill a demand that has long been felt for the interpretation of the programs of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, the Junior League of Chicago is sponsoring a lecture course on the Friday afternoon and Saturday evening concert series, and has been fortunate in securing Mr. Felix Borowski, eminent composer and critic, to conduct this course.

It will be the aim of these lectures to give a musical explanation which will be of interest to the musician and layman alike. This will include an analysis, with the aid of the piano, of the works to be played by the orchestra that week, and a brief sketch of the composer's life.

The lectures will be held Friday mornings, from October 17 to January 16, inclusive, at 11 o'clock in the Fine Arts building.

Subscriptions are being sold for 14 weeks, or half of the orchestra season. A limited number of tickets will be sold to guests of subscribers at the entrance of the hall. Course books may be secured by applying to Mrs. Alfred M. Wolfe, Junior league, room M-11, Drake hotel, Chicago.

Patronesses of the series of lectures are Mrs. Waller Borden, Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Robert Maynard Hutchins, Mrs. Howard Linn, Mrs. Arthur Meek, Mrs. Frederick Stock, Mrs. Charles H. Swift.
