Highway Department
Posting Population
of Cities on Signs

Illinois' highway division has begun posting the new census figures at the city limits of Illinois' 22 cities which have a population of between 25,000 and 100,000. Director H. H. Cleaveland of the Department of Public Works and Buildings announced this week:

The latest census counts will be painted on the state highway signs which are located at the limits of each of the 22 cities. Fred Tarrant, engineer of maintenance, will supervise the work. He said that the new figures should be on the signs shortly.

The figures are based on announcements made by the local census supervisors and are subject to revision in the final official count.

Population figures for cities under 25,000 and over 100,000 will be revised on state's highway signs as soon as correct census reports for the towns and cities in these two groups are available.

The following towns are included in the 25,000 to 100,000 class:
