Many types of costumes were displayed, paying forfeits, bobbing for apples and running relays were some of the main features.

Capt. Kid didn't appear in her gaudy costume as was expected, but others took her place.

Uncle Tom, Topsy and Aunt Jemma and even Amos 'n' Andy wearing regalia of the colored race mingled with King, Queen and the little Page.

After an evening of joyful fun the group gathered to refresh their fun tired bones with fruit punch, sandwiches, sugared doughnuts, carmeled apples, pop-corn and grapes.

The ship set sail for the many homes.

Two other Hallowe'en ships were anchored at the playroom of the Y.
