

Does Your Automobile Insurance Policy Say What YOU Think it Does?

Most motorists believe that if their car should be burned or stolen, their insurance company will pay them the amount stated in the policy. The fact is, however, that the amount named in the policy is a valuation used to determine the cost of the insurance, the rate for fire and theft insurance being a certain price per hundred dollars of valuation.

The policy says that in the event of a total loss you will receive an amount not to exceed the actual loss sustained, the settlement to be agreed upon by you and the adjuster for the insurance company. If you fail to agree, the claim will be arbitrated. This is the usual policy, which is known in the insurance world as the "non valued" form.

Then there is the "valued form" policy. Under the terms of this policy you are paid the face value of the policy, the amount on which you have paid premium, should you suffer a total loss.

The Inter-Insurance Exchange of the Chicago Motor Club issues a VALUED FORM POLICY.

Other benefits of membership are: bail bond, mechanical first aid, touring, home district and accident prevention services.

No American Wants It

No American who wants to buy a foreign cheap labor product in preference to a product made by the better paid American worker can honestly claim to be an advocate of social justice, because he wishes to build up the policy of cheapening commodities by cheapening the man who makes them. Those who oppose a tariff system which makes it harder to encourage the foreign system of cheap labor production has any real interest in the standard of living for the masses, nor does he have an intelligent appreciation of the essentials of our own national prosperity.
