Once Internationally Known Artist Is Given Home by H. P. Resident

Sved Svendson, white haired, and 70, once an internationally known artist, but now homeless and penniless, is to be given a home in Highland Park, through the generosity of Dr. Karl Meyer, medical director of the Cook County hospital, where Svendson is now a charge after being picked up on a Chicago street, where he collapsed from hunger and exposure one day last week, says a Chicago paper, which continues:

Meyer has arranged to take the veteran artist into his home in Highland Park, fix up a studio for him and pay him a salary in return for instructing his children in art.

"The old man is a magnificent character," said Dr. Meyer today, "In years to come he will be rated even greater than he is now. I am inviting him to my home because his cultural influence on our children will be priceless.

"I have a large garage which I am going to fix up for Svendson as a studio. He will teach my children, not only paint, but the beauties of art of all kinds. With his body strengthened and his mind at rest I am confident that he will produce new works as beautiful as his old. He specializes in snow scenes and Highland Park's hills and dales will give him a splendid opportunity for landscapes. I want some of them for myself and will help him create a market for others."

Fire Dept. Answer Many Grass Fire Alarms

The Highland Park fire department was kept busy over the week-end answering fire alarms. Sunday about 20 such calls were received, and the firemen were kept on the run. An old shed and a wagon in it were burned in the Highmoor subdivision on Prairie avenue Saturday. Otherwise there was no damage reported. The unusually dry weather for this season is resulting in many grass fires, and Fire Chief Hoskin again warns against carelessness in burning leaves and rubbish.

One thing that Germany seems to be suffering with is an over production of political parties.

Carroll Leads Vote for Representative in Eighth District

Complete returns from all of the 116 precincts in Lake, Boone and McHenry counties give William M. Carroll of McHenry first place in the fight for the Assembly from the Eighth District with 32,724. Bolger of McHenry county, the only democrat, is the third to gain a seat in the Assembly with 30,635.

Lee McDonough of Waukegan is 2,365 votes behind Bolger with 28,270 votes in the three counties.

The official count in McHenry county gave Lyons 4,676½, McDonough 2,370½, Carroll 17,295½ and Bolger 8,597½. Boone county gave Lyons 2,854, McDonough 1,716½, Carroll 5,139 and Bolger 1,674½.

Deerfield Graduates Win Honors at Cornell

Two Deerfield-Shields graduates, George Hutchinson '29, and Ted Osborne '26, are both rated very high at Cornell.

George has been awarded the Paul Dickinson prize for being the best all-around freshman enrolled in September 1929, and for having the best general record of those in his class.

While in Deerfield, George was in the orchestra, band, Garrick, and Salle D'Armes. He was a councilor, the business manager of the annual, and on the honor roll during his entire four years here. He was also a star in class athletics.

George was seventh in his class at Deerfield, and therefore a member of the National Honor society. In Cornell he ranks first in his class.

Ted Osborne, who was band major at Deerfield and on the swimming team, has recently been made band major at Cornell. He also sings in the Cornell Boys' Glee club. Ted has also been elected to the "Sphinx Head," the best and most exclusive organization in Cornell.
