Miraclean is so odorless, so oilless, so pure and crystal clear, that colors as well as fabrics show a decided improvement. Take any garment that has not been satisfactorily dry cleaned before—send it to Shore Line Cleaners tomorrow—and let Miraclean show you dry cleaning results you never expected to see.

Public Library

Children's Book Week

Children's Book Week will be observed this year from November 16th to the 22nd inclusive. During that time the children's room is to have a display of new and fine editions of books for boys and girls of every age, and you are invited to visit and browse. Parents and teachers are especially invited.

A voting contest will be conducted during this week for "My Favorite Book." All children who are library borrowers will have the privilege of voting for the one book which they enjoyed the best of all those read, and we want every boy and girl who is eligible to cast a ballot. The favorite boys' book and the winner of the girls will be announced at the conclusion of Children's Book Week. Don't fail to come in and vote.

In order that every one may see and examine the collection of new children's books, the children's room will be open one evening, Thursday, until nine o'clock.

A list of the choice juvenile books of this year will occupy this space next week.

War and Peace

Armistice Day suggests the following new titles:

"Nationalism and Internationalism" by Herbert Adams Gibbons. An invaluable summary of what is happening in the political world for the man who does not find it possible to do his own digging in the almost limitless sources.

"World Community" by John Herman Randall. Dr. Randall does in this book what he has long so excellently done as a preacher and writer—drawn together from wide reading the best ideas of the time and woven them into a firm pattern of popular exposition.

"Unity of the World" by Guglielmo Ferrero. Signor Ferrero here attempts to analyze the present state of the world and to sort out the tendencies favoring or working against unity.

Fall Gardening

"My Garden in Autumn and Winter" by Edward Augustus Bowles. Mr. Bowles is the world's best authority on crocuses.

"Spring in the Little Garden" by Frances Edge McIlvaine.

"Spring Flowering Bulbs" by Clark Leonard Thayer. Hardy and desirable materials for use in the home garden.

The garden magazines to be found at the library are also available for circulation: House and Garden, House Beautiful, and Country Life.

Farmers' Bulletins

The Farmers' Bulletin published by the United States Department of Agriculture are now received at the Highland Park Public library as soon as issued.
