

Chindblom Re-Elected
Official Canvass Shows;
Two Cook Co. Pcts. Out

Congressman Carl R. Chindblom of Chicago, who has represented the Tenth district in congress since 1918, yesterday was believed a certain winner over John E. Hesse, wet Democrat, who gave him the closest run in his 14 years in politics.

Two precincts were missing. Both are in Chicago. The precincts have not been counted to the total of either man because officials are confident there are discrepancies in them. Mr. Chindblom expects that the vote in these precincts will increase his lead.

On the basis of the returns, Mr. Chindblom is a victor by 2,388 votes and of this 4,600 majority was added in Lake county, which saved the congressman once before.

Gets 72,829 Votes

The returns minus the two precincts show that the congressman got 72,829 in the entire district, with Mr. Hesse getting 70,441.

Of the precincts which are missing Mr. Chindblom is confident that both will give him splendid majorities.

There will be no recount of the vote, according to the campaign manager for Mr. Hesse.

The congressman was present as the members of the canvassing board decided the issue in Chicago Tuesday afternoon.

Will Serve People

"I intend to serve the district as I have in the past and I believe that there will be no regrets on the part of those who supported me at the polls Nov. 4," Mr. Chindblom said.
