"Dick" Boyle, of the Commerce Petroleum Co., and a director of the local Rotary club, has accepted the commission of scoutmaster for this needy troop, and with the aid of the Boys' Work committee of which Dr. Walter Metcalf is chairman, will begin within the next day or so to receive applications from the present non-scout youngsters of Deerfield, for membership.

It is hoped that the parents of the many boys to be received into the troop will not fail to lend their whole hearted co-operation in this worthy movement. The clean, wholesome and instructive entertainment to be derived from a live, energetic and efficiently instructed Boy Scout organization, is known and approved by thousands of business men throughout the country, many of whom are, personally, giving much of their attention, as scoutmasters and advisers to their local clubs.

The Deerfield Rotary club in their sponsorship of troop 51, hopes to build up a splendid organization of boys, and will appreciate the approval and co-operation of their many fathers and mothers.

At their weekly luncheon meeting, Thursday, Dec. 4, the Rotary club had as their guest speaker Mr. Guy D. Doud, of Evanston, who submitted a very interesting thirty minute talk on the value of life insurance and the various types of investment and protection policies best suited and adaptable to families of limited income. Mr. Doud's address represented no sales talk, but was, instead, an interesting lecture pertaining to the needs, from an insurance standpoint, of the average family's protection needs.

Submission

If clouds came not between
Our vision and the sun,
Then were no shadows seen,
And when the days were done,
And autumn gave its need
The answer would we read
In vineyards parched and sere.

Should trials never come
To darken pathways here,
And make us yearn for Home
Through Faith's submissive tear,
We might not heed God's leading;
For when He calls us higher,
Despite our earnest pleading,
He purifies by fire.

Come sunshine then, or night,
Come clouds or clearing skies;
Come, Overruling Might,
In varying forms and guise;
Help us our course to run,
And with submission say
"Thy will, O Lord, be done."
—Frederick M. Steele.
