Two of Mrs. Jerrems' paintings were hung in the American Artists' Show at the institute this fall, and at present, she has one in the Corcoran Gallery in Washington, D. C. This most interesting exhibit will be on display until Jan. 7.

More Than 5,000 Vets
Await Hospitalization

The American Legion conservatively estimates that 5,360 veterans are on the "waiting list" for hospitalization in Veterans' Bureau institutions, which are the best in the world for such cases. In addition, 7,217 is the estimate of the Bureau, a year ago, of veterans in state institutions, which are badly overcrowded. This makes the total now in need of government hospitalization, more than 12,000. The Legion is asking congress to construct 13,204 beds, which would provide for immediate future cases needing beds by the time they can be available, in addition to taking care of the present load.

Cleaners Discuss Plans to Eliminate Price War

Plans for the organization of north shore cleaners for the purpose of eliminating price cutting were discussed at a meeting of a group of 12 leading dry cleaners of the north shore, held Thursday evening of last week at the Green Tea Pot. The object of the organization is to stop price wars and to establish and maintain a high standard of ethics in the business, members declare. While no definite action was taken, the sentiment regarding the desirability of the plan was unanimously favorable, and it is expected that steps along this line will be taken shortly.

Similar action has been taken by Chicago master cleaners and dyers in signing a price stabilizing contract and the appointment of Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, noted economist, as sales manager with the authority of practically a dictator in the business.
