Get Confessions of Boys Who Shot Out Windows of Church

Confessions implicating four high school boys in the destruction of property at St. Peter's church in Antioch were obtained by the sheriff's office and States Attorney A. V. Smith.

Clarence Ostrander, Frank Smith, Howard Johnson and Clarence Howard, all of Fox Lake, were those named in the confessions which were taken before Col. Smith, Sheriff Lester T. Tiffany, Chief Deputy Sheriff Thomas E. Kennedy and Deputy Sheriff Russell McBride.

McBride, who was assigned to the case and uncovered sufficient evidence to arrest two of the youths through questioning people in Antioch, stated that the lads had been rabbit hunting along the highway from a car that night. As they passed the church he charged, two of them shot through the windows.

In the confession one of the boys claims it was just a prank.

The damage, it was said, would not run very high but if special stained glass windows in the rear had been broken instead the loss would have amounted to more than $3,000.

Sales of New Autos in Illinois in November; Lake County Total, 96

New automobile sales in Illinois for 1930 are expected to fall more than one third short of last year's sales, according to statistics compiled by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce and released here today.

The figures show that 160,477 new cars were sold during the first eleven months of this year as compared with 233,875 for the same period of 1929. November sales in 1929 were 8,195 while in November of this year only 4,414 new sales were made.

Although Cook county sales have been running almost even with downstate during previous months, November purchases fell off sharply—1,858, less than half of the downstate sales.

Peoria county with 121 new sales ranked second in November and Kane county with 117 new sales followed. Other leaders were Sangamon, 110; Dupage, 101; St. Clair, 100; Lake, 96; Rockland, 92; and McLean, 81. In McHenry county, 27 were sold.

FIRES CAUSE DEATHS OF MANY CHILDREN

Appalling Loss of Life Through Such Disasters in State Every Year

There is an appalling loss of lives, and especially of children's lives, each year through fire catastrophies that might have been prevented, says the Educational committee of the Illinois State Medical society. A study made by one agency shows that two-thirds of the fatal burns occur in the home and that three-fourths of the victims are children under 15 years of age. The kitchen stove, the open fireplace, the hot water or steam radiator, electric appliances, hot water, matches, fireworks—even Christmas, the greatest of home festivals—are hazards.

Daily Occurrence

Hardly a day passes but we read of a child who has played with matches and has died or been disfigured for life from the burns that have resulted. Boiling water should be kept beyond a small child's reach. The tub of hot water left while mother goes to the door or attends to something on the stove is annually responsible for scores of deaths; the cooking utensil left on the stove with the handle turned so that the child can reach up and grasp it, is responsible for many more.

Fluffy dresses and play suits trimmed with fringe, in combination with games played too near open grate of bonfire, cause hundreds of fatalities every year. Fireworks and firecrackers usually bring a harvest of burns and accidents on Fourth of July. Even the "safe" sparkler is not so safe when whirled about among children wearing thin, light clothing. While the wax and paraffin candle on the Christmas tree have been largely replaced by electric tree lights, defective wiring in these incandescent lights or a short circuit has been known to cause tragic accidents. The custom of having a lighted candle in the window to welcome the Christ Child on Christmas eve is a beautiful one but unless filmy curtains and Christmas wreaths are in positions of safety disaster may result.

The child may stumble against it even before he can walk, and the resulting burn is often deeper than that from an ordinary stove.

Ignorance and Carelessness

Most of the burns and scalds that result fatally occur through ignorance of danger or because of someone's carelessness. Safety education—the knowledge that makes a child realize the hazards of everyday life—is the best way to protect children from accidents of all kinds, including fire. Until they are old enough to appreciate the dangers that lurk in everyday affairs, parental watchfulness and care must protect them from potential sources of danger.
