Continue Fight For Coast Guard Station

Despite the opposition of Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the United States Coast Guard, Representative Chindblom last week said he would continue his fight to secure a coast guard station for Waukegan, according to a report from Washington.

The tenth district congressman has been aware, for sometime, of the coast guard's objection to building at Waukegan, he said, but this has not lessened his determination to obtain passage of his bill authorizing the project.

The bill makes it mandatory for the coast guard to give Waukegan a station to protect its shipping, specifically authorizing and directing the secretary of the treasury to establish the station.

Delay in Treatment of Diphtheria Costing 2 Lives a Day in State

Pointing out that Illinois now has more diphtheria than any other state in the Union, with 175 fresh cases weekly, Dr. Andy Hall, state health director, declared last week that delayed treatment is costing this State two lives per day. An investigation of a large number of cases this fall, the director said, reveals that two-thirds of the patients are not seen by physicians until the third day of the disease and more than one-half get no antitoxin until the fourth day or later.

Home Movies Now Take Place of Old Fashioned Album; Many Attractions

Not so long ago, the typical winter revival of vacation memories consisted chiefly in poring over the old family album, filled from "kiver to kiver" with snapshots of Cousin Bess astride a burrow at the Grand Canyon and Aunt Jane on the boat deck of the Mauretania; pictures, all, that were taken on vacation and most of them specially posed and therefore unnatural.

But the world does move, and today we find the two-by-four snaps supplemented if not replaced in many cases by spirited pictures of the same burro kicking, while Cousin Bess holds on for dear life, unmindful of the clicking of the movie camera, and of shipboard friends actually doing their "six times around is a mile" on the identical liner.

Worth Extra Expense

Within a year or two the home movie outfit—camera, projector and screen—has become a necessary luxury. Vacation brings it its greatest utility. Holiday recollections are captured forever at the press of a small lever and come to life again at the snap of a switch. At least two or three manufacturers are producing equipment ideal for vacation movie taking. In every case the camera is small and compact, taking up no more room than the familiar snapshot camera. Some models a year in colors to match the feminine ensemble. Although the initial outlay is considerably more than for a "still" camera, demanding as it does a projector to show the films, the thrill of seeing familiar scenes and persons move and live upon the screen—perhaps in color—more than repays the investment from our point of view.

Waukegan Harbor Shows Slight Tonnage Decrease

The so-called nationwide depression is having little effect upon the tonnage handled at Waukegan harbor, according to the 1930 report of the army engineers to the secretary of war, made public last week.

The report, comparing 1928 and 1929 tonnage, shows a decrease from 267,200 tons to 265,684, but the value of this tonnage increased from $1,130,986 to $1,180,336.

The report shows internal receipts at Waukegan as follows: Hard coal, 7,400; soft coal, 257,984; total, 265,384; value $1,000,336. Local receipts, all in fish constituted 300 tons, worth $90,000.

What the world seems to need just about as much as anything else right now is a conscience that will function before its possessor is caught.—Louisville Times.
