CIRCUIT THEATRE TO GIVE "THE RACKET"

Presents Gangland Drama in H. P. Jan. 23 and Lake Forest January 24th

"The Racket," a successful drama dealing with Chicago's gangland, announced as the second play of the North Shore Circuit Theatre decennial repertory, will be presented to North Shore audiences during the last ten days of this month. Announcement from the office of John Allen Stewart, manager of the theatre, is that the play has been in production for several weeks, and that its performances on the established circuit will open in Highland Park on January 23.

Coming as it does between the hilarious "Nellie the Beautiful Cloak Model" and Galsworthy's delightful "A Bit O' Love," "The Racket" will be another distinct unit in the well-diversified season program. Here is a play that is based on the crime and politics situation in Chicago, a play written by a Chicago newspaper man who wrote of what he saw, a play frankly purposeful and always pointed, honest melodrama of astonishing speed and effectiveness. George Jean Nathan, writing in American Mercury, said, "There has never been a drama (Continued on page 38)
