

Elizabeth Robertson to Exhibit Her Quilts at Shawnee Club Soon

Miss Elizabeth Wells Robertson of 1250 Judson avenue, Highland Park, will exhibit the quilts, for which she has received recognition in the best art centers here and abroad, at the Shawnee Country club, at two-thirty on January 10. Miss Robertson will talk on "Quilts—Old and Interpretations and New." She will read some letters which she has received as a result of three months broadcasting over WLS. On the Homemakers' hour every Tuesday at 2:45 Miss Robertson has been giving these talks with amazing results.

At the exhibition at the Shawnee Country club beginning on Saturday, Jan. 10, decorative arts by professional artists will be given the recognition which they have not had since the Chicago Art Institute discontinued its arts and crafts exhibition.

Most of the exhibitors at the Shawnee are prize winners at the various art institute applied arts shows.

Mrs. Clara Weiles of the Kalo shop will show a marvelous Georgian silver tea service and some other silver dishes.

Mr. Charles Herbert will exhibit some of his wonderful work in tooled wood and tooled leather.

Mr. Walter Williams will show some of his new work in pewter. Mr. Williams is best known as a sculptor, one of his figures is in the Woman's Athletic club. His ceramics are well known.

Miss Cristie, the instructor of the Needlework and Textile Guild of the Art Institute will show a handsomely embroidered coat.

Miss Lucile Kaltenback, a young artist who has recently returned from Paris, will show some beautiful pottery and paper mosaics.

Mr. Robert Walker of Hinsdale will exhibit batiks on silks and velvets for wall hanging and shawls.

The Allanstand Cottage Industries of Ashville, N. C. will have weavings at the exhibition, as will also the Le Conte Craft Shop of Gathinberg, Tenn.

Mr. Carl Hallshammar, the well known wood carver, will exhibit some of his droll figures.

The Swedish Arts and Crafts Assn. managed by Tage Palm will send some of the exquisite pewter and wood carvings done by Swedish workmen.

The Austrian Werkbund, under the management of Miss Merrian Willisch will exhibit some importations shown at the Shawnee for the first time.

Mr. Fred Leighton of the Indian Trading Post is sending some Navajo rugs, baskets and Indian jewelry.

Mr. Ralph Pearson, a famous Chicago artist, has revived the old idea of hooked rugs in a new way. Indeed he is doing for rugs what Miss Robertson has done for quilts.

Miss Robertson will exhibit her collection of quilts.

Anyone interested in applied arts is invited to attend this unique exhibition during the week of January 10-17.

We used to sleep a lot sounder on grandmother's feather beds in the days of our youth, but it may have been due not so much to the feather bed as to an easier conscience.

Satirical Artist's Work Exhibited at Art Institute

The privilege of seeing so complete an exhibition of the work of one artist such as is now being shown at the Art Institute does not often occur. The works of Toulouse Lautrec, on exhibition in the East wing galleries until January 19th, number the astonishing total of two hundred and sixty-four. They are divided between paintings, drawings, prints, and posters. This gifted Frenchman, whose satirical brush and pencil revealed the underworld life of the Paris of 1885-1900, as vividly as did the pen of Balzac fifty years earlier, was born in Albi, France, in 1864. His father was Count Alphonse de Toulouse-Lautrec-Monfa, a man of dashing sporting instincts, and it was the hope of the father that the son should grow up with the same love for horses and the race track. Unfortunately, at the age of thirteen, young Henri broke a leg and in the following year suffered a like fracture with the other leg. This resulted in a suspended growth of both limbs and made him a dwarf. His father washed his hands of the son who could not fulfill his ambitions and, ridiculed by strong men, coldly pitied by women and the butt of jibes by the crowd, he sought solace in the only places he found a welcome—the cabarets and night clubs of Paris. His keen sense of observation and his talent for drawing launched him in a career that has won for him a niche alongside Daumier, Cruikshank and other great caricaturists of all time. Toulouse-Lautrec, however, was more than a caricaturist, because he depended so little on exaggeration. With the keen precision of a surgeon with a scalpel, he probed into the depths of character and with a few strokes of his brush or pencil revealed the dissipated man-about-town, the flashy sport, the race track habitue, the cabaret dancer, or the night-club hostess with sophisticated face. The present exhibition has been assembled from many sources, two panels, each nine feet square, coming from Paris especially for this showing and others from the principal museums and private collections of the United States.

John Engels Passes on in Chicago Monday

Mr. John Engels, aged 53, and a resident of Highland Park for the past 12 years, died Monday, Jan. 5 at the Presbyterian hospital, Chicago following a few months illness.

State Tax Rate Not Changed for Ensuing Year; Still 39 Cents

Following an all day session, the state tax levy board announced last week that the state tax rate for 1930 will be 39 cents on the hundred dollar valuation. This rate is the same as for the previous year. The board is composed of Gov. Emmerson, State Auditor Oscar Nelson and State Treasurer Omer N. Custer. The rate is divided as follows:

General revenue	15
State school purposes	12½
Soldiers' bonus bonds	05½
Illinois waterway bonds	01¾
University of Illinois	02½

Blind relief 01

Total 39

It generally was expected the rate would be given a slight boost, but the board decided that the rate of last year would bring sufficient revenue to conduct affairs for the coming year.

Art School Opens

The school of the Art Institute opened for its mid-winter term Monday January 5. The new section, which has been especially provided for newcomers who wish to take up the study of art at the present time, is open for registration. The school restaurant on the ground floor opened to the public on January 3rd.
