The following is a report read by the president, Mrs. E. T. R. Murfey, which includes some of the high lights of the years work.

President's Report

The Young Women's Christian association of Highland Park for the year 1930 has been a community center for the citizens of Highland Park, a home for girls, a recreational center and a means of spiritual uplift to girls and women of this community.

Twenty years ago an annual meeting of Y. W. C. A. was held in Highland Park because a group of women had this vision of service for Highland Park. They were joined each year by others that were willing to help with this work for women and girls. Of those who through all these 20 years and during the year 1930 have been on the board of directors, are Mrs. W. A. Alexander. (Continued on page 20)

A two weeks exhibition opened with a tea and reception last Wednesday at the Chicago Galleries association, 220 N. Michigan avenue, showing the work of three women painters,—Miss Ethel Coe, Miss Anna Lynch and Mrs. Elizabeth Krysher Peyraud. Miss Coe's work includes sketches of the Southwest and of Algiers; Miss Lynch, a well-known miniature painter, is exhibiting also some portraits and flowers; Mrs. Peyraud is showing portraits, flowers, still life and some interiors, the latter being of special interest here since they portray interiors of Ravinia homes. Among them is a window in Mrs. Warming-ton's home, two interiors of Miss Jewett's cottage with figures, and a picture called "Sunday Morning" showing Mr. and Mrs. George R. Miles in their living room which was last exhibited at the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia.

To Appear in Cast "The Racket" Jan. 23

Three members of the Ravinia Junior work-shop, Gertrude Williams, Royal Arch Gunnison and Guernsey Le Pelley, are connected with the North Shore theatre's latest presentation, "The Racket," opening in Highland Park Jan. 23.

Gertrude Williams, who has already made a name for herself locally by her work with the Junior workshop, is assistant to Mr. Griffin the director, and the workshop will undoubtedly benefit much from her experience.

Royal Arch Gunnison, who made his debut to Ravinia by his part of Reynolds in the Workshops one act play, "A Favor for a Lady," plays the difficult character rôle of Sam Meyer, a Jewish lawyer. Since Gunnison is cast along with much older men much credit is due him that he is able to hold down the part.

Guernsey Le Pelley, will have an appearance as "Clark" one of the policeman who capture "Nick Scarsi."
