New Year's Resolutions

Appropriate and inexpensive.
 Resolved: That I will read more good books during 1931 than I did during 1930.
 Resolved: That I will do some reading with a purpose, and, with that in mind will obtain from the Highland Park Public library a course of reading on that subject that I meant to start in 1930.

(Signed) U and I.

Additional Magazines

The following titles have been recently added to the list of magazines to be found at the library:

Architectural Record, Aviation, Better Homes and Gardens, Bird Lore, Christian Century.

Live Literature

The object of reading is to give people a means of orienting themselves to the life to be led. For this reason they must be supplied with live literature.

Mechanized Education?

Universities — American, English, German, by Abraham Flexner. Dr. Abraham Flexner, sincere critic of U. S. education, has just published his book in which he explains first his concept of a modern university: one devoted to the conservation of past knowledge, the increase of systematic knowledge, and the training of students above the Secondary level. With this basis of criticism in mind, the German universities fare well, Oxford and Cambridge not quite so well, while American universities lag far behind.

The book is devoted chiefly to American universities and is not confined to generalities. This is the frankest and most stimulating work on American higher education in several years.

Chiefly Jane Addams

The Second Twenty Years at Hull House, by Jane Addams. This might well be a partial autobiography. We learn little of Hull House, but much of the various causes in which Miss Addams is or has been interested, from woman suffrage to world peace.

The reader feels that Hull House is what it is because its founder always has taken her many rebuffs with a philosophic humor.—Library Lantern.

Sociology

Pioneering on Social Frontiers, by Graham Taylor. This pioneer in "Christian sociology" and founder of the settlement widely known as the Chicago commons presents here an interpretation of an important period in social history in terms of his own experience. While still a young man he came to Chicago where he has long been closely identified with the best interests of the city. The World's Fair, anarchist uprisings, race riots, political intrigues, European problems, labor crises, and the World War appear in these pages, with the people concerned. And the story of Chicago commons is a connecting thread throughout. — The Booklist.

New Reputies Named by Sheriff for Road Duty

Sheriff Lester T. Tiffany has established a county highway police through placing three deputy sheriffs on the highway and an additional man in the county building to take the place of one of the veterans who will go on the road.

Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady will approve the additional men under the state constitution which permits the retaining of men to be paid out of the earnings of the office.

David A. Hutton, for years a deputy sheriff, John DeSmidt, who worked for four years under Lawrence Doolittle, and Geno Palmirie, who was a member of the Lake Forest police force and later a bailiff in circuit court, will take to the road on the night force.

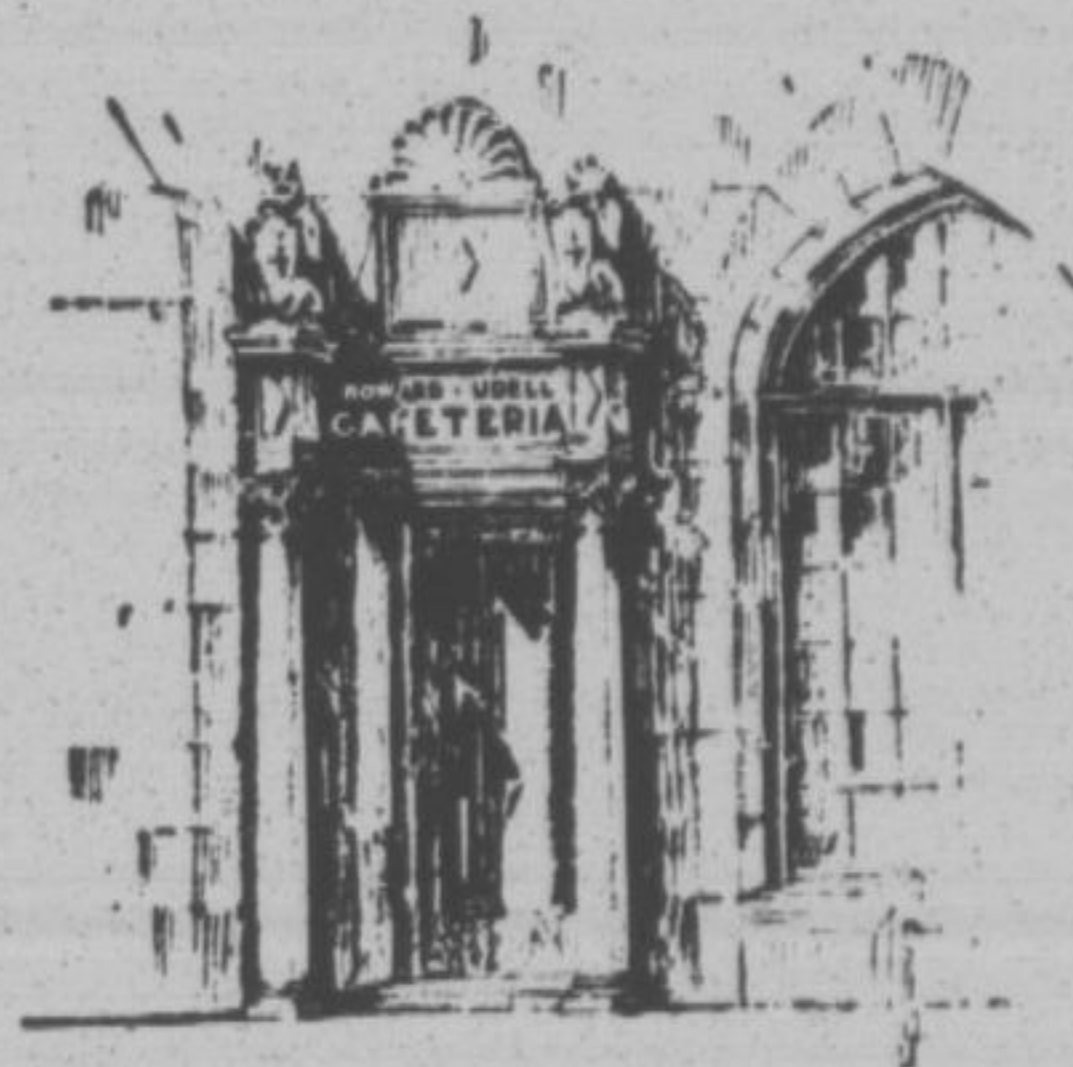

To fill the vacancy created by the departure of Palmirie the sheriff will bring in Arthur Grieve of Zion.
