MODERN ETIQUETTE

by Roberta Lee

1. When a question in general company has been addressed to one person, is it ever permissible for another to answer it?
2. May the words "house party" be used in an invitation?
3. Is it proper to eat crackers, celery, and radishes with the fingers?
4. How long before the appointed date of the wedding should the invitations be sent?
5. Should a woman who is registering at a hotel prefix her name with the title "Miss" or "Mrs."?
6. Are relatives ever seated side by side at a formal dinner?
7. What is the meaning of "entree"?
8. What is customary when there is death in the family of a friend?
9. What characteristic ranks highest in the American ideal of etiquette?
10. When silverware gifts are presented to the bride, should the initials of the bride's maiden name or her husband's name be engraved on them?
11. Should one push his plate back when he has finished eating?
12. Does a man often pay formal social calls?
13. Is it ever permissible to speak of a man by his last name, as "Bradley," or "Smith?"

14. Is there a fixed hour for dinner in America?
15. Is the word "ball" ever used when sending invitations to a private dance?
16. What does an invitation to a card party demand?
17. How may one terminate any conversation that has grown too intimate or tedious?
18. What should a man wear at a formal breakfast?

Answers

1. Never; it is very ill-bred to do so.
2. No; the proper words are "week-end," or "a few days."
3. Yes; this is the only correct way.
4. Two or three weeks in advance.
5. Yes, always.
6. Never.
7. It is French for a dish served as one course, usually between two main courses, but sometimes the first course.
8. A call of condolence within the first month.
9. Courtesy.
10. Her maiden name.
11. No.
12. Occasionally, but not often.
13. Never, always say "Mr. Bradley" or "Mr. Smith."
14. No; the hour varies in different sections of the country.
15. No; it is only used when the affair is a public one.
16. A prompt answer, as the hostess wishes to know the number of players for whom to arrange.
17. Quiet dignity and tact will succeed invariably.
18. A frock coat and gray trousers.

Our effective navy is one hundred and thirty thousand tons below the present British navy and the tonnage allowed us by the London treaty. And yet our bogus peace societies are shouting that our naval program is a war menace.
