New Motor Road Snow Plow Put to Work During Blizzard

Chief of Police Percy McLaughlin was busy all day Sunday using the new motor road snow plow on the main thoroughfares of Deerfield, attempting to keep them open, after Saturday night's raging blizzard, which made every highway impassable. The sidewalk ploy, piloted by George Pettis, was not put into action until Monday, as Acting Mayor E. H. Selig felt that with the drifting of snow all day Sunday the work would be futile.

The Bowman milk delivery for Sunday was not made until late in the afternoon as the milk vans failed to arrive in Highland Park until one o'clock Sunday afternoon. On Monday precautionary measures for the early delivery were taken by Bowman officials and the milk was shipped on the Northwestern railroad.

Autos were stalled at intervals all day along the streets during the blizzard Saturday night. With all the inconveniences to which motorists were put, no one seemed to begrudge the weather or be in a brumbling mood, but all seemed to be enjoying the real old fashioned snow storm which made drifts over their heads in some places.

The road snow plow was put into action again Monday, but snow had not been cleared away enough, so both the Wilmot and Deerfield schools were closed for the day.

It was amusing to see all the antiquated sleighs and bobs on the streets Monday.
