Happenings About This Part of the North Shore; County Seat Doings

Rep. Richard J. Lyons last week introduced a bill in the house at Springfield calling for plant protection and license, the act to be administered by the department of agriculture.

The new municipal code for the city of North Chicago, the first revised set of ordinances since 1910, was passed by the city council last week.

The board of supervisors last week approved the action of the committee in January renewing the contract with T. P. Gallahue, county veterinarian, for another year.

George Fred Finer, life long resident of Waukegan, died recently at his home, 417 Franklin street. He was born October 19, 1868 in that city. His father, the late Mayor Fred Finer, died in 1906. His marriage to Miss Harriet Spink was solemnized at St. Joseph, Mich., on January 1, 1895.

Guy F. Thomas, 44, of 430 North Sheridan road, Waukegan, the father of four children, attempted to kill himself last week by drinking carbonic acid. He was rushed to the Waukegan Clinic where first aid measures administered saved his life.

It is now up to the Treasury department to decide whether the government will institute condemnation proceedings to gain title to the site for the new Waukegan postoffice, or whether it is willing to wait until a mass of unsatisfied judgments, claims and counter claims which now cloud the title of the Morrow-Wheeler tract have been untangled.

After a dispute with her husband last week which started because he forgot to call for her when she was out visiting, Mrs. Alice Stover, 28, Waukegan, slashed her throat with his razor. She was rushed to St. Therese's hospital, where she is expected to recover, although the wound was deep enough to cut into the larynx.

Choking fumes escaping from broken pipes in two automatic refrigerators threatened Waukegan firemen last week, as they fought to extinguish a fire in the basement of George's cafe, 129 East Washington street. A loss of $4,000 was caused by the fire, with insurance only partly covering it, according to James Collins, the proprietor.

A bill providing for the creation of a regional port commission to investigate the feasibility of an interstate port authority, and contemplating port facilities from Waukegan to Michigan, Indiana, which would probably aid materially in the development of the local harbor, has been introduced by Representative M. L. Igo of Chicago.

The lion and the lamb will lie down together again. This time they are personified by John Bull and Ghandi.
