Happenings About This Part of the North Shore; Doings at the County Seat

Dates for the presentation of "H. M. S. Pinaflore" by the Waukegan Operetta society were announced last week for May 6 and 7 at the Majestic theater.

Louis Hankins, 24, Fourteenth street and Dicky avenue, North Chicago, last week ended a dispute with his wife, Inez, 19, by cleaving her head open with an ax as she lay in bed. He was arrested.

Two Ford sedans were purchased last week for the use of Sheriff Lester T. Tiffany's men. A heavier car with a trade value of $435 was turned in. Zion was low bidder.

Clarence W. Diver, president of the Waukegan school board, will be unopposed in the April 11 election while fifteen will seek membership on the board to fill seven vacancies.

Christian Walther, a life-long resident of Waukegan, passed away at Victory Memorial hospital, Waukegan, following a prolonged illness.

Undismayed by defeats in the past sponsors of a community high school for the Town of Avon, excepting the Village of Round Lake, are prepared to submit a new petition to W. C. Petty, county superintendent of schools, demanding that he call a new election.

Leanders C. Winegar, a well known Barrington resident, died last week at the West Suburban hospital in Oak Park, following an operation. He had lived in Barrington for 20 years. His widow, Mrs. Jennie Edmans Winegar, survives him.

Three Chicago women were painfully injured last week when their car, out of control, plunged from Rand road down an embankment and into Lake Zurich. The car was halted by the mud in the lake bed after rolled over several times. Shallow water prevented a more serious mis-

During the winter several Libertyville men have been putting in their spare time making bows and arrows and now on a Sunday or early evening the archery enthusiasts may be seen in their back yards and nearby fields perfecting themselves in the ancient art of shooting with bow and arrow.

It is still possible to live as cheaply as our ancestors lived. All you have to do is to go to the mountains in country, get yourself a one or two room cabin, and heat it with an old stove or a fireplace, eat salt meat in the winter and vegetables grown in the backyard in the summer. Of course you can't have a radio or an automobile, or even a bathtub, but neither could your ancestors.

To use baseball terms, March 4 has come and gone and President Hoover is now in the pitcher's box for the fifth inning.

Grant Township Voters Opposes Legislation on School Tax Proposition

Indignant taxpayers of the Town of Grant, in which Fox Lake and the Lake side are located, last week met at the Brook district school and discussed legislation that would effect the Grant community high school.

Those present, and it was reported that close to 25 were there when Chairman Douglas Waite called the meeting to order, signed a petition urging Senator Ray Paddock, of Wauconda, to use his influence against Senate bills 80 and 81.

Both measures provide for an emergency action which if passed will enable high school districts such as Grant, that have incurred debts that have been termed illegal prior to March 15, to make the debts legal and payable by raising the tax levy without a vote of the people.

Those opposed to the senate bills in Grant point out that there is a law providing the raising of a tax levy to $2 by a vote of the people.

Plan Prosecution of Merchants Who Sell Colored Oleomargarine

Vigorous prosecution of merchants who sell oleomargarine and other butter substitutes, so colored as to resemble butter, was threatened last week by officials of the Lake County Pure Milk association. Their contention is that the sale of colored butter substitutes is in violation of an Illinois law passed in 1897, but seldom invoked.

C. W. Gray, Grayslake, president of the Lake County Pure Milk association, William Chandler, Gurnee, treasurer of the same association, and Thomas Chantney, Gurnee, committeeman of the Waukegan local of the county organization, in Waukegan and purchased cartons of this colored oleomargarine in a number of stores in that city.
