Nearly 1,800 Children Enjoy Easter Egg Hunt Lions Club Is Sponsor

(By B. Thorson)

At the sound of a whistle, a horde of approximately 1,800 excited children ranging everywhere from ten down to two years of age, dashed, tumbled, or crawled down the slopes of a shallow ravine in Sunset park on Monday, April 6. The first annual Easter egg hunt was on!

Little tots, carrying diminutive Easter baskets, burrowed like rabbits into the leaves where they firmly believed the Easter bunny had left a red, green, or blue egg. Boys, confidently armed with paper bags and even market baskets, swarmed like so many ants over the park. Ever and anon an excited shriek mingled with the undertone of shuffling leaves of this tensely quiet egg hunt.

And when the last egg had been pocketed, prizes were awarded to the winning egg-hunters. The grand prizes, two heavily laden Easter baskets that brought forth screams of delight from the children, were presented to the two who had found the most eggs.

The first-prize winner, "Pie" Brennan from Elm Place school, was the fortunate (or unfortunate?) finder of thirty-nine eggs. His close second was Annan Ziato, also from Elm Place. Prizes to the holders of the next highest number of eggs went to Nello Venturi and Margaret Klemp of the Immaculate Conception school, Vincent Peddle of Elm Place, Geno Taziali of the Green Bay school, and little Anne Shuti.

To those who found the "lucky" chocolate eggs, prizes were given also. These winners were: Junior Nichols from the Oak Terrace school, June Macabee, a five-year old from Highland, Leonard Stratford of the Green Bay school, and Eddie Artis, Ray Inman, and Eddie Sheahen from Elm Place.

The hunt, directed by Harry L. Allen of the Community Service, Inc., was sponsored by the Lion's club of Highland Park, with the public and parochial schools, East Park board, Boy Scouts, and the Community Service of Highland Park co-operating.

Paul Olson was chairman of the grounds committee. The egg committee was directed by R. W. Pease, and Myron Rybolt was the chairman of the committee which supervised the hunt.

States Owns Land in Forty-Three Counties

Illinois owns 33,030 acres of land, scattered over 43 counties, in 29 of the 32 downstate senatorial districts and in Cook county. The United States government holds title to 14 tracts embracing 20,190.44 acres, and there are 3,751 acres in which the township funds in 23 counties are invited.

Of the 33,030 acres owned by Illinois, 340.55 acres, or a little more than one per cent is in Cook county. The greater part of this, 298.44 acres, is occupied by the Chicago state hospital. The industrial home for the blind, the eye and ear infirmary, the research and educational hospital grounds, Lincoln's log cabin and the Douglas monument make up the remainder.
