

CITY CANDIDATES SPEAK AT MEETING

Men Running for City Offices Heard by Many at Elm Place School

Over 800 people attended the recent candidates' meeting at Elm Place school sponsored by Highland Park League of Women Voters. This is one of the largest meetings of this kind ever held in Highland Park, and it is hoped that the citizens will carry through by appearing promptly at the polls on April 21st to register their votes for city officers.

At the meeting, the members of the present administration who are running for re-election, presented their records and achievements for the past four years, and told of their plans for the future if re-elected. The opposing candidates were given an equal opportunity to present their qualifications.

The total list of candidates is as follows:

Benjamin F. Lewis and Emil B. Metzel, candidates for mayor; W. J. Brown, William M. Reay, Lyle Gourley, Julius H. Zimmer, Robert J. Greenslade, Archie B. Cook, and Joseph H. Taylor, candidates for commissioners; Earl H. Purdy and Herman Schwery, candidates for police magistrate.

Among the Child Welfare bills recently introduced by Senator Florence Fifer Bohrer and which are being sponsored by the Illinois League of Women Voters, is one regarding the employment of children in street trades, S. B. 242.

Miss F. Zeta Youmanns, secretary of the Illinois Child Labor committee, in discussing this bill says:

Bill to Regulate

"For the first time in the history of the Illinois General Assembly, a bill has been presented to the legislature asking certain regulations of the use of children in street selling. Children in increasing numbers are found engaged in street selling not only in Chicago but in other cities in Illinois. We find children traveling all over our suburbs, often late at night, selling doughnuts for several wholesale manufacturers of these popular cakes. One of these boys tried to collect money for a bicycle from a half dozen homes where he regularly sold doughnuts.

"Children selling gum, candy and artificial flowers follow the same plan. But the commodity that we are most accustomed to seeing in the hands of child street sellers is the newspaper. There are, unquestionably, many boys who are mature enough and in good physical condition to carry on three or four hours of street selling in addition to school work. Equally without question, there are a great number of boys at this moment engaged in street selling who are in no way fitted to do the work.

"Because of lack of regulation, any boy who is able to walk and talk is a prospective street seller. The selling of newspapers late at night by very young boys is the most in need of regulation. The papers that do not get on the streets until after eight at night and sell until after midnight use a great many small boys. These children sell at points far distant from home, so that even if they dispose of all of their papers by 12:30 they do not get home until one or two in the morning. A study made at the Parental school recently revealed the following facts. The Parental school is the institution provided by the board of education for boys who have become habitual truants. Every boy in three different classes were interviewed, and of the whole number interviewed, 75 per cent had been engaged in street selling at the time of truancy. It costs the county $50.00 a month for every boy sent to the Parental school.

"For these reasons we are asking in Senate Bill 242 the following regulations of street selling: All selling or distributing of any articles on the streets or from door to door are prohibited to boys under 12 and girls under 18 years of age. There is no argument for the use of girls in street selling. That provision is already enforced in Chicago. All selling prohibited after eight p. m. by boys under 16 years of age. Boys between 12 and 16 who wish to engage in street selling must first secure a permit and badge from the board of education.

Penalties Charged on Taxes not Paid Before May First Is Warning

Warning that general taxes are due and payable at the office of the treasurer, and that a penalty will be applied against taxes unpaid May 1, has been issued by County Treasurer Jay B. Morse.

A penalty of 1 per cent and advertising costs will be added May 1. All special assessments, such as payments for paving, water, sewer, sidewalk and sewer siphon, are payable to the various city and village collectors and not at the county building. Just the general taxes are being collected by Morse.

The statement of the treasurer, made because there has been some confusion on the part of the public, was as follows:

"General taxes are not due and payable to the county treasurer or Waukegan, Ill. May 1 a penalty of 1 per cent and advertising costs will be added. Special assessments will not be in the office of the county treasurer until July 1, but are now being collected by the various city and village treasurers," he declared.
