Variety of Artistry Seen on N. S. Musical Festival May 18 to 23

One of the great charms of the program of the North Shore Music Festival, to be given in Patten Gymnasium May 18 to 23, is the variety of artistry there presented. This year eight soloists will take part in the week's programs. Among them are both American and foreign artists, all of whom are at the top of their profession. Some of them are artists of long standing, some are now enjoying new honors and new achievements.

Among these latter is Lily Pons, soloist on the Monday evening opening. Miss Pons provided the sensation of the Metropolitan Opera in New York when her singing caused that sedate body to rise en masse cheering and waving hats at her debut in January. Her's is a Cinderella-like success. She came to the Metropolitan unheralded, and on her first appearance sent the audience into paroxysms of joy. Now she is the subject of stories, articles, photographers and feature writers.

Resembling Lillian Gish somewhat, Miss Pons is but 26 years old, a native of Cannes in southern France; she is of French and Italian parentage. The critics have rated her voice as phenomenal in its high range and capacity.

It was a matter of mere hours that Miss Pons was able to sing at this year's festival. Due in South America at the opening of the opera season there, she had planned a short vacation in her native France. This vacation she had to forego to sing here, and then it became possible only if she appeared Monday night and left immediately following the concert to make boat connections for the south in New York.

Miss Pons will sing the "Caro Nome" from Rigoletto, the song with which she achieved over-night fame this winter; she will also sing the "Bell Song" from Lakme on the opening night of the concerts.

Appearing on the same program with Miss Pons, in the role of narrator in Honegger's King David, is Paul Leyssac, famed as an actor, author, and lecturer. Since arriving in this country some years ago, Mr. Leyssac has taken a prominent part in dramatics. He was cited and decorated by King Christian X of Denmark for his translations into English and French of the short stories of Hans Christian Andersen. Mr. Leyssac is of French and Danish parentage, and was born in Copenhagen. He is also an acknowledged master of the art of make-up and has created several famous characterizations.

What Famous Doctors say about milk

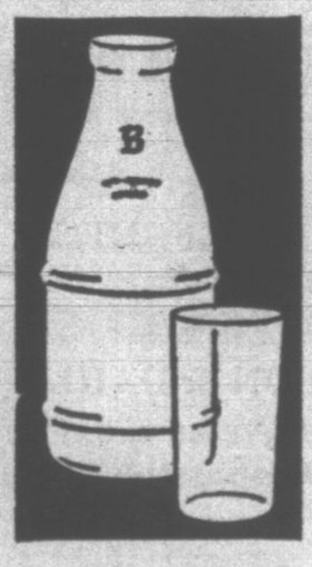
DR. Arnold H. Kegel says "The health of a community is profoundly influenced by the safety and wholesomeness of its milk supply and likewise by the amount of milk consumed. If supplied in sufficient amounts milk will protect against certain diseases which stunt the growth and retard the development of the mind and body."



And Dr. H. N. Bundesen says, "Milk and its products are needed by every family. Not only may milk be taken as a beverage and in cooked foods, but as cream, butter, cheese, ice cream, egg nogs, buttermilk, junket, koumiss, and culture milks."

Give your family Bowman's Milk and you give them nature's finest food in its purest and most delicious form.
