Brilliant Acting In Famous Play

What is most certainly the cleverest display of brilliant acting that film audiences have been privileged to see in many months is "The Royal Family of Broadway."

"The Royal Family of Broadway" is based on the famous play, "The Royal Family" by George S. Kaufman and Edna Ferber. It depicts the home life of a leading family of American stage performers.

But it is not the impressive quality of the original playwrighting alone which makes this play a wonderful movie. Most of the splendid attributes of this production are found in the stirring craftsmanship of Fredric March, Ina Claire, Henrietta Crosman and Mary Brian—as presentable a quartet of sterling actors as one could wish for.

The manner in which this group of players portrays the lives of these believable personages is a tonic for the heart. "The Royal Family of Broadway" is rich in comedy, romance, pathos and drama. It is invested with sparkling glamor — it moves with the dazzling speed of a meteor.

J. W. Kerrigan Is Important Irish Star

J. M. Kerrigan, who scores a sensational success in the Fox Movietone production, "Don't Bet On Women," featuring Edmund Lowe and Jeanette MacDonald and directed by William K. Howard, according to preview sources, was a member of the notable Abbey Players of Dublin, Ireland, for nine years before they made their triumphal tour of this country. His picture successes included "Little Old New York," "Song O' My Heart," "Under Suspicion," "Lightnin'," and "Don't Bet On Women," coming to the Alcyon theatre.

MARIE DRESSLER and POLLY MORAN in "REDUCING"

"Reducing" Is Laid In Beauty Parlor

Picture Marie Dressler and Polly Moran running a beauty parlor!

That's what they do in their latest co-starring picture, "Reducing."

According to Director Charles Riesner, considerable search was made for a story which would be a worthy successor to "Caught Short," the previous Dressler-Moran laugh hit.

The search was ended when Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer executives read the hilarious synopsis of "Reducing," concerned with the happenings in a salon for reducing excess avoirdupois.

Desert City Built For "Beau Ideal"

Drama as Herbert Brenon's directive art can produce it, brave situations, spectacle and beauty of the desert as it has never been filmed before, make Radic Pictures' "Beau Geste" sequel "Beau Ideal," a picture to be looked forward to.

One of the best-known casts in Hollywood including Loretta Young, Irene Rich, Ralph Forbes, Don Alvarado, Leni Stengel, Otto Matiesen, Paul MacAllister, Hale Hamilton and George Rigas, will be seen. Lester Vail, stage actor "discovered" by Brenon, has the heroic lead.

Thousands of players and complete talking-picture studios were taken from Hollywood to the Sonora desert in Arizona, where more than four weeks were spent making desert scenes. Special trains, scores of trucks, airplanes and fleets of powerful automobiles participated in the hegira.

A huge tent city was erected on the desert to house this multitude. Thousands of gallons of water and tons of ice had to be transported daily to the site from Yuma, Arizona.

"Kept Husbands"

Having as its theme the problem of a poor young man who marries a rich society belle and is forced into an idler's life as a consequence, radio pictures' "Kept Husbands," deals with an intensely human subject.

Cast in the film are Dorothy Mackaill, Joel McCrea, Clara Kimball Young and Bryant Washburn.

"Kept Husbands" was produced under the direction of Lloyd Bacon.
