

Ravinia Players Hold Interesting Meeting

On April 27 Miss Mary Lou McLernan was hostess to an interesting meeting of the Ravinia Players. As this group hopes to be able to produce a play next year written by some one of its members, a short program or original work in play-reading and writing was given.

Mr. Guernsey Le Pelley read for the Ravinia Players a one-act play of his own, "How About Hell" which was very enthusiastically received. As may be judged from the title the scene was laid in the netherworld and dealt with the delightful machinations of some Chicago gangsters who disturbed the age old routine of that domain. Following this Miss Gertrude Williams read a very unusual monologue which was effective and skilfully interpreted.

At some future meeting there may be more original material to be considered and discussed; meanwhile the Ravinia Players are trying to provide a more extensive background of all aspects of stage study in order to facilitate the production of their plays next year.
