

TOWN OFFICIALS IN QUANDRY OVER LAW

Paddock's Bill Reducing Number of Asst. Supervisors Puzzles Them

Town officials throughout the county are awaiting an analysis of the Senator Ray Paddock bill cutting down the size of county boards of supervisors in counties of more than 100,000 in population, so that arrangements can be made for shaving the size of the board from 45 to 33 members.

The new law provides an assistant for each 5,000 in population, which would cut the Waukegan delegation from 15 to 8 members, Deerfield from six to three, and Shields from four to two. Zion and Libertyville each would have an assistant. In all there would be 18 supervisors.

Seven Run in Spring

In the spring four Waukegan assistants, Ira Holdridge, Walter Piquette, Frank Burke and A. J. Sutkus will be up for re-election. In Shields, Thomas V. Murphy and James Kelley, and in Deerfield, A. W. Vercoe and Paul Udell will have to run again.

These men, in the opinion of Town Clerk Richard Barnum, all will be eligible for office. The same opinion is held by County Clerk Lew A. Hendee, who pointed out that supervisors are elected in as near equal divisions as possible for a four-year term at each election, which is held every two years. One group goes in at one election, and the second body for the four-year term at the next election so that one half of the board is newly elected and the other half hold-overs.

Officials Ponder

What puzzles officials is what to do with the 11 assistant supervisors elected in Waukegan last spring. But four, under the Paddock bill, will be needed to serve with the four men who will take office next spring. Barnum does not know but that some will have to resign. The same will be true in Deerfield and Shields township.
