

WOMEN VOTERS PLAY SATURDAY AFTERNOON

They will only have to go to the club house, instead of the lovely gardens of Mrs. Metzler—but the weather man seems to be most optimistic as to the sunny day hoped for.

So far the sale of tickets has outstripped that of last year when the League sponsored a group of players from Chicago, for an entertainment in some beautiful setting such as Highland Park can offer has an appeal in mid-summer that is hard to resist.

The play selected is by St. John G. Ervine, called "Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary" and the cast includes the well-known names of Rose B. Blasler, Betty Jacobus, Geoffrey Baker, G. S. Canright, Gerard Dinkeloo, Virginia Pardee, Geo. H. Morris, Jean C. Allan, Helen R. Zimmerman and Roy Jacobus.

The chorus of the Highland Park Music club, under the direction of Mrs. Lawrence Meyer will give several numbers between acts and to those who have had the privilege of hearing these singers before, it makes a very great appeal. Those who will hear them for the first time on Saturday, have something to look forward to.

A committee under the direction of Mrs. E. T. R. Murphy will serve punch, and the play, having four acts, is scheduled to start promptly at 2:30.

The Metzler estate is at the foot of Sycamore place, but as the parking space is limited in the grounds, cars will have to be parked along one side of Sycamore place and on Lake avenue.

LIBRARY

Vacation Time

Vacation time, when your mind is free from care, is the ideal time to enjoy a good book. Whether your summer plans include a fishing excursion among the mountain lakes, a cottage at the shore, or a trip, you will want to take books with you. A vacation privilege is offered by the library between June first and October first to patrons leaving the city. The books may be kept for the duration of your vacation.

Russia—the Twentieth Century Enigma

"We will solve this problem, no matter what the cost."—V. I. Lenin, 1922.

Chamberlain, W. H., "Soviet Russia."—"Mr. Chamberlain answers the how's and why's of Soviet Russia more completely, more accurately, and more entertainingly than has ever been done before." The author has been for the last seven years the Russian correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor.

Eddy, G. S., "Challenge of Russia."—"Out of many years' experience as secretary for Asia, of the Y. M. C. A., Mr. Eddy weighs the new conceptions of life in Soviet Russia and does not find them entirely wanting. He frankly "challenges" America and other nations to set their house in order against like social upheavals.

Hindus, Maurice, "Humanity Unraveled."

Hindus, Maurice, "Red Bread."—Deservedly the best-known of recent intimate studies of the Soviet regime. The Russian boy who migrated to America in 1905 has since made six extensive tours in European and Asiatic Russia. Herein he dispels misinformation and arouses deep sympathy for the masses in their struggle toward a dream.

Marie, Grand Duchess of Russia, "Education of a Princess, a Memoir."—Dramatic reminiscences of the Russian court through the years from 1890 to 1918 and the unhappy interlude of married life with Prince William of Sweden, by the cousin of the late, all-fated czar. The author is now a successful business woman in New York.

Marshak, I. I., "New Russia's Primer."—The Russian title of this book is "The Story of the Great Plan." It was written for use in schools to acquaint children of twelve to fourteen with the five-year plan of construction launched in 1928, also to explain to them the nature of a planned economy. It is not expected that the English version will be used by children, although many older ones will read it with interest.

Hoover, C. B., "Economic Life of Russia."—The first volume will please the average reader with its "warmth of local color but sober and penetrating observation on the whole economy of Russian agriculture."

Vernadskii, G. V., "History of Russia."—Briefly outlining the history of the first thousand years, "nearly half of this book is devoted to recent events in Russian history" since 1914. Unique emphasis has been placed upon the continued Oriental influence in Slavic cultural life.

Miss Margaret Armstrong, for two years a member of the library staff, has recently returned from the University of Illinois where she has spent the past year in the study of library science.

Half of education is learning to define ideas; and the other half is learning where to find out about them. The present emphasis will some day be recognized for the foolishness it is. In our opinion, four months spent in learning how to use a library will yield more return than four years spent learning dates.—Howard Vincent O'Brien, in The Chicago Daily News.
