

Protecting the Community

ILLINOIS banks have organized to protect themselves and the funds of their depositors from the hands of veggs and crooks. Through separate county federations, town guards have been established and supplied with arms and ammunition. Reward notices have been posted warning the crooks—telephone and telegraph operators have been schooled in spreading alarms.

Every one in this community will benefit from this organized effort. This bank is co-operating with this movement in a big way, because it is interested in the welfare of this community.
