

Deputies Force Car
Into Ditch; Capture
Holiday Booze Load

After blocking a road, and forcing a car into a ditch last week, a squad of county highway police captured a booze runner who eluded on a previous chase of 20 miles.

Deputy Sheriffs Geno Palmieri and Arthur Grieve, who pursued the car before, were laying in wait for it near Russell, and when they saw the machine approach at a fast rate of speed they realized the driver was going to attempt a second getaway.

Palmieri drew his squad car across the road, and instead of slowing down the alcohol runner sped toward the ditch and tried to circle the squad. The machine, a big sedan carried a load of 55 gallons of alcohol, became stuck.

Finally Surrenders

The driver, who gave his name as Ned Bakes, of Chicago surrendered as soon as he realized that he was trapped.

In the first chase the deputies first saw the car near Spauldings corners and gave chase. They could draw no closer than a fourth of a mile until they reached Libertyville and came within a block of the machine. The alcohol runner then put on more speed and beat them to Wheeling which is over the county line.

Tiffany, through his drive against holiday booze being trafficked through the county, caught close to 2,000 gallons and several drivers in ten days. Most of them paid fines of $200 and costs.

Closing of the Waukegan schools through lack of finances is a remote possibility in the opinion of John E. Reardon, secretary of the board of education. At present Reardon is certain of meeting payrolls for December and January and has hopes of obtaining cash for February.

Continuance of the city's rigid economy program during 1932 in order to pare down the municipal debt by at least $60,000 is the plan of the Waukegan city council according to forecasts by officials concerning next year's program.

APPROVE PRICE CUT

Farmers and Dealers in Meet at Waukegan Decide to Co-operate

Pledged to maintain the present high standard of their product and work constantly toward the passage of an adequate milk regulation ordinance in Waukegan and North Chicago, representatives of 200 milk producing farmers in Lake county, furnishing 45,000 pounds of milk a day in Waukegan and North Chicago, and other north shore towns, agreed to accept a cut of 34 cents a hundred pounds for their output in order that Waukegan and North Chicago milk consumers may save 1 cent on the price of milk in quart and pint bottles, according to a Waukegan paper.

In Effect Jan. 1

On Jan. 1 the new price of 12 cents for quarts and 7 cents for pints of milk went into effect in all accredited dairies furnishing milk produced by the Waukegan local of the Pure Milk Association.

The new price per 100 pounds of milk to the producers is $1.98 F.O.B. country. The old price was $2.30 per 100 pounds. The local dealers pay an additional 3 cents per hundred pounds for the milk delivered to their plants and it is then pasteurized to the consumers.

ized and bottled before being delivered.

Pint Price Cut

Dealers here point out that Waukegan consumers were given an additional benefit over the Chicago consumers in that price per pint is to be 7 cents, whereas, in Chicago it remains 8 cents, it was reported.

H. S. District Gets Continuance in Case

Continuance of ten days was granted the Deerfield-Shields high school district last week by Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady in its suit for $32,000 back tuition from the non-high school district. Lawyers for the high school district contended more time was needed to file briefs.

The non-high school district contends that the demand exceeds the amount that can be raised under the tax levy.

NO small part of the prestige of Bowman Dairy Company is due to the promptness and courteousness of its delivery service.

For over fifty-eight years Bowman Dairy Company's clean, white wagons have been a familiar and reassuring sight on the streets of Chicago. Through the deep snows of winter or under the heat of summer suns you may be sure of prompt courteous delivery of a milk that is unmistakably superior in flavor.

Stop the next Bowman representative you see. Ask him to tell you more about the goodness of Bowman's Milk. Try a bottle at his suggestion. See for yourself what a rich, fresh and delicious milk it really is.
