Bodil Rosing Must Portray Maid's Part

Because she scored so well as the hysterical maid in "Sunrise," Bodil Rosing, who came to the screen after a stage career of many years, has been portraying maid and scrub woman roles ever since. In this respect "Surrender," the Fox picture proves no exception at all.

While Warner Baxter, Leila Hyams, Ralph Bellamy, Alexander Kirkland and C. Aubrey Smith appear in roles that are at least presentable, Miss Rosing is just a housekeeper.

"I long for a role where I can wear some decent clothes," declared Miss Rosing when she accepted the part. "I have been scrubbing floors in pictures for seven years and I want to be a lady, just once, anyway, to see how it feels."

"I am catalogued as a chorwom-an, maid or housekeeper, and no casting director seems to think I can do anything else, but so long as I am able to do them well I don't suppose I should find any fault. I can wear my good clothes when I'm not working in a picture, still I'd like to see myself fashionably and richly gowned in a production some time. You can't blame a woman for being a bit vain, can you?"

Wallace Beery, who plays the worn-out fighter in "The Champ," was born in Kansas City. He started his career in a circus, later scored on the stage and from there went to films to win stellar fame. Among the outstanding hits were his performances in "The Big House," "Min and Bill," "The Secret Six" and "Billy the Kid."

William Cameron Menzies and Kenneth MacKenna, whose inaugural directorial effort was Elissa Landi's triumph, "Always Goodbye," are again behind the megaphone in "The Spider," Fox mystery drama featuring Edmund Lowe and Lois Moran. El Brendel has a prominent part.

Noel Francis—On stage and on the screen in "Resurrection," "Bachelor Apartment," "Rough Romance," "Up the River," "Smart Money," and "Blonde Crazy." Born in Temple, Texas.

$55,000,000 worth of actual navy equipment was used in the making of "Suicide Fleet," the spectacular RKO Pathe production. Imagine, 5,000 officers and sailors in the cast! And a fleet of giant destroyers in action along with submarines, including the Argonaut, the world's largest sub-sea vessel.
