

Speaks Here April 3

GUNNER H. BERG
National Director of Volunteer Training, Boy Scouts of America.

The University of Scouting conducted by the North Shore Area Council at the Elm Place school next Monday, April 4, will be honored by the presence of Gunner H. Berg, the national director of Volunteer Training, Boy Scouts of America. Mr. Berg had planned to be with us in January, but was unable to attend. This time he had definitely scheduled his trip in the midwest to include this university and he assures us he will be here.

Mr. Berg is the author of the training courses that are being conducted in the university. He is one of the nation's best authorities on Boy Scout work especially as it relates to training the volunteer leaders. Several men from this council know him personally and claim that he is one of the most interesting and helpful speakers that they have ever heard. Mr. Berg is a graduate from the University of Washington, served three years as high school principal at Spokane and also completed his master's degree at the university. He has been a professor in the Washington State Normal school in the science department and also head of the department of scoutcraft in this school.

Scouting Career

Mr. Berg first became interested in scouting on entering his job as high school principal and served a short while as an assistant scoutmaster of a troop in the community and then as scoutmaster for almost three years. On moving to Bellingham he was put in charge of training for the local council, serving in many other capacities and was elected to the office of commissioner for one year and president of the council for the last year.

Mr. James E. West, chief scout executive, heard him read a paper on training at the Region Eleven Conference and soon afterward he was invited to join the national staff which was in June 1927.

This University of Scouting is a public affair; every Boy Scout leader over 18 years of age and every father is urged to come. Mr. Berg's address will be on "boy nature" from an altogether new viewpoint.
