

MANY NEW PLAYERS AT SUNSET VALLEY

Ben Rippel, Robert R. Shanley, John S. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Flood, and Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Couffer.

Among the Players

Despite rain and cold weather close to 200 golfers were out for Saturday and Sunday play. Duke Hill, who has been getting in a lot of practice for his foursome, evidently was not yet ready to begin serious money golf, for he was not present. H. A. Taylor was the only member of the group to brave the weather.

"Bobby Jones" Proctor showed up Sunday afternoon with a green skating cap, a yellow slicker and arctics. He complained that the ice wasn't strong enough on the pond to hold a spoon shot.

The fire department was represented by C. Robinson and R. S. Sneeden. The police have not yet made their appearance.

Bob Brandt is about ready to register a protest against the amount of golf Walker Flynn is playing. The former club champion was on the course five times last week, and is beginning to give old man par a real battle.

Bill Chambers, all dressed up like Wee Willie McFarland in brown slacks with sweater, socks and tie to match, is burning up the course. He's added thirty pounds in weight, and his iron game is in midseason form. Bill should do well in the district tournament this season.

J. B. Garnett has become a member of Sunset Valley this season, and expects to do most of his golfing there.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Ney were out for the first time this year on Saturday afternoon.

The register also carried the name of Worse and Worser. The telephone number given, 2222, indicated the presence on the course of Vetter and Vetter.

Likens Depression to Growing Pains that Are Not Necessarily Fatal

Speaking before the Economic club of Chicago recently, Mr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university said, "The current depression is different. It may be likened to growing pains, which although they hurt terribly, are not necessarily serious in the sense that they threaten life."

It is a fact which more people should come to appreciate, that our present troubles are growing pains. America is in process of a larger and more mature development. We are heading toward a future greater than anything the past has known.

President Hoover recently predicted a 20,000,000 increase in our United States population in the next twenty years—a million per year, on an average. He pictured 4,000,000 new homes for them; thousands of new city buildings, factories, thousands of miles of new highways, and railway systems with increased capacity to serve this greater America.

In corroboration of this view, Mr. Charles Abbott, managing director of the American Institute of Steel Construction, tells us that our ten biggest industrial years are ahead of us. Charles F. Kettering, of General Motors, writing recently in the Saturday Evening Post, expressed similar views. These men are forward-looking, undiscouraged, confident.

An individual without imagination or faith, with no background of experience, can look at the bare muddy fields of March and turn away in discouragement from the dreary expanse of landscape. But the wise old farmer who has seen many harvests, knows that nature is already getting the soil ready for the coming crops. Surface indications do not tell the true story. Nor do the current disturbances on the surface of our national life give a true picture of tomorrow. Have faith in America.

Spring Festival at L. F. Academy; Special Features Outlined

A track meet on the academy field in the morning, a play—"A Pair of 6's" presented by the Gargoyle club at the Durand institute at 2:15 in the afternoon and the annual Junior Prom at the academy gym in the evening, is the program of events for the spring festival to be held at the Lake Forest academy Saturday, April 30. Through-out this annual day of "Open House" watercolor, charcoal drawings, pen-and-ink sketches, products of the academy's art class, under the direction of John Volney Allcott of the Art institute of Chicago, will be exhibited in Reid hall. Among the patrons and patronesses are, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thorne, Mr. and Mrs. Glore, Mr. and Mrs. Logan, Mr. and Mrs. T. McNenemy, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bateman, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Blossom, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Dick, Mr. and Mrs. G. Corson Ellis, John Griffith, Mr. and Mrs. DeForest Halburd, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Sargent, Mr. and Mrs. Trowbridge, Mr. and Mrs. E. Wyman, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Rendtorff, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Weier, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Wilson.

VILLAGE VARIETIES ARE GLOOM CHASERS

The modes and manners of the gay nineties will be presented with artistic fidelity which will stimulate a train of pleasing remembrance in the elders and bring to the young a deeper insight into that colorful era of American life. The cast is as follows:

Rose Martin	a telephone operator	Gertrude Perrigo
Ainsworth Brown	night clerk and would-be song writer	Henry Hammer
George	a porter	Edward Merrill
Milton Ginsberg	theatrical producer	William F. Ross
Uncle Joe Cadaver		Charles Perrigo

The songs, the words of which are also written by Mr. Hammer are, "It's the Same Old Flame," "Indicative Mood, Present Tense," and "Rose of Ravinia." This feature of the Varieties, alone will be too good to miss.

Another Hit

A "Night Club Scene" written by E. Henry Kluber and directed by Theodore Fischer, is another big hit of the show. In the "Cafe Broccoli" there will be a master of ceremonies, musicians, singers, dancers and visitors. There will be special scenery for this act.

There will be several very fine quartette numbers during the evening. These have been arranged and by Robert Bridges, musical director of the performance. Members of the quartette are: Henry Hansen, David Olson, Thomas Thompson, and William Bowden, and can these boys sing! An orchestra of high school boys under the leadership of Frank Von Geyso will lend their musical support to the entire show.

The main theme of the production, which the management is trying to keep a deep dark secret is one of the most unique vehicles for a variety show ever attempted. Orrin S. McCorison who has written and directed this clever plot has turned out a professional piece of work which includes about thirty people in the cast besides the audience who will also be a part of the show.

Able Direction

The whole show is under the skillful and able direction of James Cady Ewell, production chairman who has given his personal supervision and guidance to every part of the entertainment including scenery and lighting.

A ticket to this show will provide you with real enjoyment besides helping to make the Village house available for community activities. Don't miss it!

Will Hold Spring Tea at Frances Shimer

Alumnae and patrons of the Frances Shimer Junior college at Mount Carroll, Ill., are completing plans for the spring tea which is to be held this year at the Illinois Women's Athletic club, 111 East Pearson street in Chicago. The tea occurs next Saturday afternoon, April 30. Dr. Floyd C. Wilcox, president of Frances Shimer, will be present. Miss Jane O'Boyle of Evanston, acting president of the Chicago association of the Frances Shimer Alumnae has charge of the details of the tea. Mrs. Franklin LePelley has charge of the reservations from Highland Park.
